Unicam Advances 4th Penalty-Reduction Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Thursday handed 35-2 initial floor approval to a bill which, in effect, seeks to guarantee the validity of all contracts written in compliance with an unconstitutional law.

The bill, LB19, was the fourth penalty reduction measure—all written by finance industry representatives—to be advanced from general file.

It attempts to give prospective effect only to the State Supreme Court's decisions knocking out the unconstitutional 1959 and 1963 installment sales acts.

Further, it would provide that all agreements entered into in accordance with statutes which might later be held unconstitutional would be fully valid and enforceable.

In effect, LB19 seeks to validate all presently invalid installment sales agreements and protect any contracts written under other Nebraska interest rate laws, most of which are subject to questions of constitutionality.

In other finance action:

—Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud announced his intention to attempt to revive LB26 with the understanding that he would reduce its maximum rate for time sales and similar installment transactions from 18% to 15%.

—LB24, reducing to six months the statute of limitations on lawsuits challenging contracts invalidated by a State Supreme Court ruling tossing out a law on constitutional grounds, was advanced on a 24-10 count.

Key Debate Scheduled

Scheduled for debate Friday is LB11, the key interest rate proposal which would establish three interest structures for the future.

Only senators voting against advancing LB19 were Edward Danner and George Syas, both of Omaha.

The bill, amended upon the recommendation of the Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee, was signed by Sens. Albert Kjar of Lexington, W. H. Haselbrook of West Point and H. L. Gerhart of Newman Grove.

Prior to debate, Kjar distributed to all senators an analysis of the bill (and the three other penalty reduction measures) prepared by finance industry attorneys.

According to the analysis, "agreements entered into in accordance with the statutes prior to the date of the holding of the statute to be unconstitutional shall be fully valid and enforceable according to their terms."

Judicial determinations "holding statutes unconstitutional which statutes contain mandatory provisions requiring compliance and a penalty for failure to comply therewith should be given prospective effect only," it stated.

No "Windfalls"

Kjar said the bill is intended to prevent "a tremendous windfall" from the high court's time-sales decisions, and "protect all future generations, now and forever."

Kjar, who Tuesday had told Sen. M. M. Forrester that he would obtain an attorney general's opinion on the constitutionality of the penalty reduction bills, indicated he had changed his mind.

Des Moines (AP)—The president of a finance company said Thursday the firm is moving two offices out of Nebraska because of the uncertainty over lending laws.

Edward Glazer, president of Dial Finance Co., said two of Dial's seven Omaha offices will be moved to Council Bluffs and combined. Dial will keep five offices in Omaha and two in Lincoln.

Dial has operated 226 offices in 28 states.

Dial operates under Nebraska's Small Loan Act, which is not directly involved in Supreme Court decisions which invalidated two time sales laws. But Glazer said the decision cast doubt on the status of all loan regulations.

The move of two offices, he said, "will spread the risk."

Glazer said he favors submitting a constitutional amendment to the vote of the people to lay a new ground-work for lending laws. This was done in Texas, he noted.

Under the Carpenter amendment, a vote of the people could knock out liquor by the drink at bottle clubs or licensed non-profit corporations.

According to Carpenter, the proposal would be submitted to a county-wide vote.

Earlier, Sen. T. C. Reeves of Central City failed on an 11-25 count to secure approval of an amendment which would have provided that licenses could not be issued to bottle clubs or non-profit corporations except upon the approval of the people at an initiative election.

HOUSE OK'S DEBT HIKE

Sent To Senate On Close Vote

... LABELED TEMPORARY

Washington (AP)—Over strong Republican opposition, the House passed Thursday a bill to raise the national debt limit from its present $309 billion to $315 billion.

The measure, described as a temporary increase, was sent to the Senate by roll-call vote of 187 to 179 after the House defeated 197 to 172 a GOP move to send it back to the ways and means committee for downward revision of several billion dollars.

Voting to send the bill back to committee were 23 Democrats and 149 Republicans. Against recommitting it were 197 Democrats. All the "yes" votes on final passage were cast by Democrats. Against the bill were 32 Democrats and 147 Republicans.

Unnecessary
Republicans claimed the bill would add to what they termed unnecessary spending by the Kennedy administration. President Kennedy had requested the legislation.

It was the third time this year that the House has voted to raise the debt ceiling from its permanent figure of $285 billion. Last May the roof was raised to $309 billion on Aug. 31. In August, the $309-billion ceiling was continued until the end of this month, when it will revert to $285 billion unless the pending bill becomes law.

The new extension would lift the ceiling to $315 billion until next June 29 and then drop it to $309 billion until next July 1.

Chaos
Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the ways and means committee, told his colleagues that chaos would result if Congress refused to pass the bill and let the ceiling drop to $285 billion.

He said the new, higher ceiling is "absolutely essential to permit the secretary of the treasury to pay the bills that have been put on him by Congress."

Mills apologized to the House for asking it to consider a debt ceiling bill for the third time this session, but said the unsettled state of federal financing caused by uncertainty over the tax cut bill and failure of Congress to act on appropriations bills made stopgap legislation necessary.

Can't Avoid
He said members of Congress could not avoid their responsibility for raising the limit even though they had opposed the spending bills that made it necessary.

"The majority has spoken," he said, "the contracts have been made. The obligations are a fact."

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, had a different version of what would happen if the House defeated the bill.

"Within 72 hours," he said, "the administration would be up here asking for a lower ceiling and looking for ways to cut spending."

Brown urged the House to show "courage and political independence" and block the attempt to increase the ceiling.

Rep. Thomas Curtis, R-Mo., contended the executive branch did not furnish the data necessary to determine just how much would be needed next year.

More Facts
He said if the House turned down this measure, the administration then would come back with additional facts and figures. He said at least $4 billion could be cut from the $315-billion limit.

Rep. Eugene Keogh, D-N.Y. said cutting the debt limit is not the way to cut spending because "the public debt is the result, not the cause, of spending."

He said as the population increases some government expenditures go up automatically and "I hope we will face up courageously to our growing responsibilities."

Shaken Up
Dirksen was shaken up slightly in an automobile collision on the way in from his Virginia home.

The GOP leader said most senators put in a full day in the Senate and have to work nights and weekends on their correspondence. He said "there is three days of mail on my desk" to be answered "but it may be the distinguished senator from the Nutmeg State hasn't got anything to do in his office."

Mansfield played it cool. He said he is not going to turn the Senate into a sideshow to "give the appearance of being busy for the purpose of impressing the boss—the American people."

In Fact
Of the Ole Miss riot, Dr. Silver charged state highway patrolmen ceased enforcing law and order and "in fact in some cases (were) encouraging the restless crowd to demonstrate against the marshals." He said the marshals did not fire tear gas until after hours of harassment, and the army was not called in until it was evident the marshals were fighting for their lives.

"Long after it was made abundantly clear that many faculty members had witnessed the inception of the riot and knew for a certainty about the fraud against the federal government, the university administration did not deviate from its original position but, on the contrary, continued to search for evidence against the marshals," Dr. Silver said. "The army's first contingent arrived just in time to prevent disaster."

He charged a state legislative investigating committee "took six months to put together from the sworn statements of more than 90 witnesses its masterpiece of sentimental fiction," but never called for testimony of faculty members and state legislators who saw what happened. The committee blamed the marshals and the federal administration.

Obedience
"Today the totalitarian society of Mississippi imposes on all its people acceptance of an obedience to an official orthodoxy almost identical with the pro-slavery philosophy," Dr. Silver said. Without federal intervention, he said, Negro leadership is helpless in trying to improve the race's lot.

Should Be Led
"I wish our leader would be more of a leader and lead the Senate as it should be led," he said, adding: "I see no sense in recessing every night at a convenient hour for the benefit of senators who wish to have dinner, go to embassies, or be entertained..."

"We are being frivolous with the people's business," Dodd said that "unless we have leadership, we'll go on dribbling our way through this session."

He referred specifically to Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, and said "the Republican opposition is so soft, so cozy, it doesn't amount to much."

There was a sequel to the row just before the Senate quit Thursday.

Like Skunk
Dodd arose to say that he did not want to be "a spiteful and hateful man" and that all day he had "felt like a skunk at the lawn party."

He said that late Thursday afternoon Mansfield had called and offered to come to see him but that instead he insisted on calling on the majority leader.

"It made me feel like a peanut," Dodd told his colleagues, adding that he considered Mansfield "a gentle, decent, honorable man—a great soul."

Dodd said that when he spoke out Wednesday night he was "upset by all these delays we have been having," but that he wanted to tell his fellow senators "we do have wonderful men to lead us."

His colleagues gave him a round of applause when he sat down—a rare tribute on the Senate floor.

On Strong
Both Mansfield and Dirksen, the Republican leader, had already left the chamber when Dodd spoke, but Dirksen came on strong at a news conference Thursday morning.

"Quite a number of things can induce cerebral incoherence," Dirksen said. "I don't think I ever encountered anything quite so incoherent in the Congressional Record."

Asserting he is glad Dodd "has suddenly got religion and become such a zealot for attending sessions of the Senate," Dirksen said Dodd "ought to get a seeing-eye dog" to find his way to the chamber "so he can be around more often."

Unicam Advances 4th Penalty-Reduction Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Thursday handed 35-2 initial floor approval to a bill which, in effect, seeks to guarantee the validity of all contracts written in compliance with an unconstitutional law.

The bill, LB19, was the fourth penalty reduction measure—all written by finance industry representatives—to be advanced from general file.

Fully Valid

Further, it would provide that all agreements entered into in accordance with statutes which might later be held unconstitutional would be fully valid and enforceable.

In effect, LB19 seeks to validate all presently invalid installment sales agreements and protect any contracts written under other Nebraska interest rate laws, most of which are subject to questions of constitutionality.

In other finance action:

—Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud announced his intention to attempt to revive LB26 with the understanding that he would reduce its maximum rate for time-sales and similar installment transactions from 18% to 15%.

—LB24, reducing to six months the statute of limitations on lawsuits challenging contracts invalidated by a State Supreme Court ruling tossing out a law on constitutional grounds, was advanced on a 24-10 count.

Key Debate Scheduled

Scheduled for debate Friday is LB11, the key interest rate proposal which would establish three interest structures for the future.

Only senators voting against advancing LB19 were Edward Danner and George Syas, both of Omaha.

The bill, amended upon the recommendation of the Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee, was signed by Sens. Albert Kjar of Lexington, W. H. Hasebrook of West Point and H. L. Gerhart of Newman Grove.

Prior to debate, Kjar distributed to all senators an analysis of the bill (and the three other penalty reduction measures) prepared by finance industry attorneys.

According to the analysis, "agreements entered into in accordance with the statutes prior to the date of the holding of the statute to be unconstitutional shall be fully valid and enforceable according to their terms."

Judicial determinations "holding statutes unconstitutional which statutes contain mandatory provisions requiring compliance and a penalty for failure to comply therewith should be given prospective effect only," it stated.

No "Windfalls"

Kjar said the bill is intended to prevent "a tremendous windfall" from the high court's time-sales decisions, and "protect all future generations, now and forever."

Kjar, who Tuesday had told Sen. M. M. Forrester that he would obtain an attorney general's opinion on the constitutionality of the penalty reduction bills, indicated he had changed his mind.

"I wonder if you think it would be fair to ask the attorney general to give an opinion at this time," he declared.

LB19, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said, would result in "this body saying that the law means nothing."

Industry attorneys who wrote the bills are "defending their legal careers," he declared, after seeing their earlier efforts thrown out by the court.

"If they want these bills, let's give them to them. Then, I hope they enjoy it when the Supreme Court gives it to them."

Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City proposed that the bill be amended to apply it only to contracts written under the installment sales acts, then withdrew his proposal after an objection from Kjar.

Practical effect of the bill, Carpenter said, would be that "no one, past or future, can be subject to any penalties."

Danner's proposal to amend the time limit in LB24 to one year failed on a 15-17 vote before the bill was advanced.

Dial Finance Co.
Moving 2 Offices
Out Of Nebraska

Des Moines (P)—The president of a finance company said Thursday the firm is moving two offices out of Nebraska because of the uncertainty over lending laws.

Edward Glazer, president of Dial Finance, said two of Dial's seven Omaha offices will be moved to Council Bluffs and combined. Dial will keep five offices in Omaha and two in Lincoln.

Dial has operated 226 offices in 28 states.

Dial operates under Nebraska's Small Loan Act, which is not directly involved in Supreme Court decisions which invalidated two time sales laws. But Glazer said the decision cast doubt on the status of all loan regulations.

The move of two offices, he said, "will spread the risk."

Glazer said he favors submitting a constitutional amendment to the vote of the people to lay a new groundwork for lending laws. This was done in Texas, he noted.

Bottle Club Bill Clears Hurdle

The bottle club bill Thursday finally cleared its major floor hurdle on a 34-1 vote, carrying with it a new provision handing local governmental units authority to determine whether bottle clubs may sell liquor on Sunday.

The measure, LB23, was guided through a lengthy floor debate by Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln, its sponsor.

For a few hours, it carried a local option feature attached on an 18-15 vote upon the recommittal of Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff.

Following the lunch recess, Stromer won 31-4 approval to do away with the feature, fearing that it "will kill this bill."

Motion Withdrawn

Pending at the time was an amendment, proposed by Sen. Michael Russillo of Omaha, to repeal the present bottle club act. He withdrew the motion after the local option provision was stricken.

Under the Carpenter amendment, a vote of the people could knock out liquor by the drink at bottle clubs or licensed non-profit corporations.

According to Carpenter, the proposal would be submitted to a county-wide vote.

Earlier, Sen. T. C. Reeves of Central City failed on an 11-25 count to secure approval of an amendment which would have provided that licenses could not be issued to bottle clubs or non-profit corporations except upon the approval of the people at an initiative election.

PROFESSOR CHARGES:

Whites In Miss. Dare Not Speak

... STATE 'CLOSED SOCIETY'

Asheville, N.C. (P)—A University of Mississippi professor charged Thursday night his home state is a "closed society" where the white man does not dare speak out and the search for truth "has become a casualty."

Dr. James W. Silver said the people of Mississippi were sold "a palpable and cynical hoax" that the federal government was responsible for the riot when Negro James Meredith enrolled at Ole Miss. Silver blamed the university administration.

Dr. Silver, professor of history at Ole Miss and a member of the history faculty there 28 years, said in an address for the Southern Historical Association:

"The Mississippian, who prides himself on his individuality, in reality lives in a climate where non-conformity is forbidden, where the white man is not free, where he does not dare to express a deviation opinion without looking over his shoulder."

Search

The search for historical truth—including the truth of what happened when Meredith enrolled—"has become a casualty in embattled Mississippi," he said.

Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi said at Athens, Ga., where he made a speech, "old Silver's liable to say anything. I wouldn't waste words on that man. He ought to have been kicked out a long time ago."

The 56-year-old historian and native of Rochester, N.Y., who was chairman of the Ole Miss History Department from 1947 until 1958 under the department's "revolving chairmanship" program, said he was present when Meredith was enrolled at bayonet-point. He said on-the-scene reporting by news media, which has been criticized by Mississippi state officials, "was accurate, and interpreted sound and temperate."

Mississippi's "closed society," he asserted, immediately projected the version that the riot resulted from federal encroachment, deliberately "planned by the Kennedys and callously incited by (chief U.S. marshal) McShane when he called for tear gas."

Paranoia

"That cleverness in shifting the culpability for defiance of law from those creating the violence to those enforcing the law could only succeed among a people suffering from a touch of paranoia," he said. Paranoia is a mental disorder marked by delusions of persecution and one's own greatness.

"The striking parallel between people and events of the 1850s and the 1950s brings home the consciousness that Mississippi has been on the defensive against inevitable change for more than a century, and that for some years before the Civil War it had developed a closed society with an orthodoxy accepted by nearly everybody in the state," the historian said.

This orthodoxy and monolithic structure exist today, he said, bolstered by political leaders, the state's newspapers, its churches and leaders of its Society.

In Fact

Of the Ole Miss riot, Dr. Silver charged state highway patrolmen ceased enforcing law and order and "in fact in some cases (were) encouraging the restless crowd to demonstrate against the marshals." He said the marshals did not fire tear gas until after hours of harassment, and the army was not called in until it was evident the marshals were fighting for their lives.

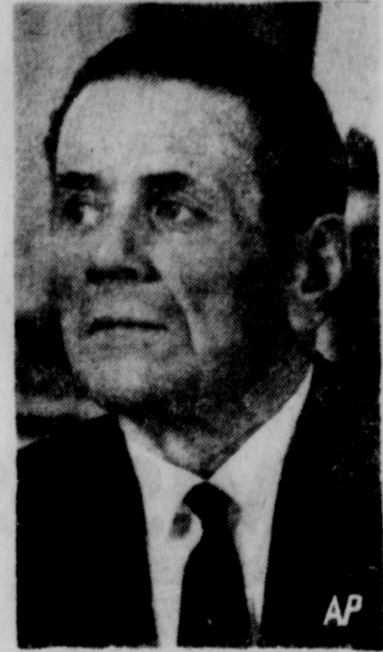

"Long after it was made abundantly clear that many faculty members had witnessed the inception of the riot and knew for a certainty about the fraud against the federal government, the university administration did not deviate from its original position but, on the contrary, continued to search for evidence against the marshals," Dr. Silver said.

"The army's first contingent arrived just in time to prevent disaster."

He charged a state legislative investigating committee "took six months to put together from the sworn statements of more than 90 witnesses its masterpiece of sentimental fiction," but never called for testimony of faculty members and state legislators who saw what happened. The committee blamed the marshals and the federal administration.

Obedience

"Today the totalitarian society of Mississippi imposes on all its people acceptance of an obedience to an official orthodoxy almost identical with the pro-slavery philosophy," Dr. Silver said. Without federal intervention, he said, Negro leadership is helpless in trying to improve the race's lot.

Sen. Dodd's Claims Raise Dirksen's Ire

... IN LEADERSHIP ROW

Washington (P)—A charge that Senate leaders are maintaining Wall Street hours of 12 to 5 while legislation is dragging and lagging touched off a lively row Thursday.

It began even before the regular 12 o'clock convening time when Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., accused Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., who voiced the complaint against short hours, of cerebral incoherence.

"If you want night sessions, we'll keep you here, and then you will know what's going on," Dirksen shouted at Dodd when the two met on the Senate floor.

Menacing

Dodd, who started the verbal battle Wednesday night, replied that he was not frightened by Dirksen's "menacing words and implications."

Dodd was a little late reaching the chamber and before he arrived Dirksen noted the absence of "the brave crusader from the Nutmeg State" who, he said, "has such zeal for being here and getting on with the business."

Shortly before the Senate recessed at 7:15 Wednesday night, Dodd lit into both the Democratic and Republican leaders for not holding longer sessions.

Should Be Led

"I wish our leader would be more of a leader and lead the Senate as it should be led," he said, adding:

"I see no sense in recessing every night at a convenient hour for the benefit of sena-

... LABELED TEMPORARY

Washington (P)—Over strong Republican opposition, the House passed Thursday a bill to raise the national debt limit from its present $309 billion to $315 billion.

The measure, described as a temporary increase, was sent to the Senate by roll-call vote of 187 to 179 after the House defeated 197 to 172 a GOP move to send it back to the ways and means committee for downward revision of several billion dollars.

Voting to send the bill back to committee were 23 Democrats and 149 Republicans. Against recommitting it were 197 Democrats. All the "yes" votes on final passage were cast by Democrats. Against the bill were 32 Democrats and 147 Republicans.

Unnecessary

Republicans claimed the bill would add to what they termed unnecessary spending by the Kennedy administration. President Kennedy had requested the legislation.

It was the third time this year that the House has voted to raise the debt ceiling from its permanent figure of $285 billion. Last May the roof was raised to $309 billion until Aug. 31. In August, the $309-billion ceiling was continued until the end of this month, when it will revert to $285 billion unless the pending bill becomes law.

The new extension would lift the ceiling to $315 billion until next June 29 and then drop it to $309 billion until next July 1.

Chaos

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the ways and means committee, told his colleagues that chaos would result if Congress refused to pass the bill and let the ceiling drop to $285 billion.

He said the new, higher ceiling is "absolutely essential to permit the secretary of the treasury to pay the bills that have been put on him by Congress."

Mills apologized to the House for asking it to consider a debt ceiling bill for the third time this session, but said the unsettled state of federal financing caused by uncertainty over the tax cut bill and failure of Congress to act on appropriations bills made stopgap legislation necessary.

Can't Avoid

He said members of Congress could not avoid their responsibility for raising the limit even though they had opposed the spending bills that made it necessary.

"The majority has spoken," he said, "the contracts have been made. The obligations are a fact."

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, had a different version of what would happen if the House defeated the bill.

Cut Back

"Within 72 hours," he said, "the administration would be up here asking for a lower ceiling and looking for ways to cut spending."

Brown urged the House to show "courage and political independence" and block the attempt to increase the ceiling.

Rep. Thomas Curtis, R-Mo., contended that the executive branch did not furnish the data necessary to determine just how much would be needed next year.

More Facts

He said if the House turned down this measure, the administration then would come back with additional facts and figures. He said at least $4 billion could be cut from the $315-billion limit.

Rep. Eugene Keogh, D-N.Y. said cutting the debt limit is not the way to cut spending because "the public debt is the result, not the cause, of spending."

He said as the population increases some government expenditures go up automatically and "I hope we will face up courageously to our growing responsibilities."

Frisivolous

"We are being frivolous with the people's business," Dodd said that "unless we have leadership, we'll go on dribbling our way through this session."

He referred specifically to Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, and said "the Republican opposition is so soft, so cozy, it doesn't amount to much."

There was a sequel to the row just before the Senate quit Thursday.

Like Skunk

Dodd arose to say that he did not want to be "a spiteful and hateful man" and that all day he had "felt like a skunk at the lawn party."

He said that late Thursday afternoon Mansfield had called and offered to come to see him but that instead he insisted on calling on the majority leader.

"It made me feel like a peanut," Dodd told his colleagues, adding that he considered Mansfield "a gentle, decent, honorable man—a great soul."

Dodd said that when he spoke out Wednesday night he was "upset by all these delays we have been having," but that he wanted to tell his fellow senators "we do have wonderful men to lead us."

His colleagues gave him a round of applause when he sat down—a rare tribute on the Senate floor.

On Strong

Both Mansfield and Dirksen, the Republican leader, had already left the chamber when Dodd spoke, but Dirksen came on strong at a news conference Thursday morning.

"Quite a number of things can induce cerebral incoherence," Dirksen said. "I don't think I ever encountered anything quite so incoherent in the Congressional Record."

Asserting he is glad Dodd "has suddenly got religion and become such a zealot for attending sessions of the Senate," Dirksen said Dodd "ought to get a seeing-eye dog" to find his way to the chamber "so he can be around more often."

Shaken Up

Dirksen was shaken up slightly in an automobile collision on the way in from his Virginia home.

The GOP leader said most senators put in a full day in the Senate and have to work nights and weekends on their correspondence. He said "there is three days of mail on my desk" to be answered "but it may be the distinguished senator from the Nutmeg State hasn't got anything to do in his office."

Mansfield played it cool. He said he is not going to turn the Senate into a sideshow to "give the appearance of being busy for the purpose of impressing the boss—the American people."

Reds Display New Rockets

Moscow (U) — The Russians displayed four silvery ground-to-air rockets of a new design through Red Square in a revolutionary day parade, Thursday and represented them as potent anti-missile missiles.

Tass said they were guided interceptors, "capable of hitting any up-to-date air space attack weapons." Radio Moscow said they "can attain hits on all means of air and space attack."

Western military experts, however, expressed reservations about the killing capacity of these 50-foot-long weapons, displayed in the traditional parade celebrating the 46th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Reception
Premier Khrushchev watched the three-hour show in gray, chilly weather from a reviewing stand atop Lenin's tomb, then was host to a reception at the Kremlin for about 2,000 persons, including a score of American industrial leaders who are visiting Moscow.

In an opening toast he declared the Soviet Union will surpass the United States as the world's No. 1 nation in another seven years. He held out the olive branch to Red China. He warned that "if the capitalist world raises weapons against us, you will see what will happen." He drank "a toast to the spirit of Moscow, peace for all the world," after U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler inquired: "Where is the spirit of Moscow?"

The four rockets drew primary attention in the 10-minute military section of the day's parade. Army trucks towed them. Veteran observers spotted nothing else new among the array of tanks, artillery, armored personnel carriers and other weapons.

Lethal-Looking
The rockets were lethal-looking, two-stage instruments with radar nose cones plainly visible. Each stage carried fins for guidance.

Western experts said the rockets might be capable of zeroing in on short range or intermediate range missiles in flight. But they said they doubted the rockets could intercept intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) such as the U.S. Minuteman, which travel higher and faster.

There was speculation that these might be the rockets which Premier Khrushchev once claimed could hit a fly in outer space.

Heavy Coat
Top members of the Soviet Communist Party and government took the salute of military units with Khrushchev, who wore a heavy overcoat and felt hat against the near-freezing temperature.

Missing from the lineup were presidium members Frol R. Kozlov and Mikhail Suslov, both reported ailing. But prominent among the group was former president Klementi Y. Voroshilov, who

Rockefeller Officially Seeking Nomination

Nashua, N.H. (UPI) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for president Thursday with a handshaking swing in pelling rain in New Hampshire to win votes in the state's first-in-the-nation presidential primary.

The 55-year-old Rockefeller, first avowed 1964 presidential contender, coupled his long-expected announcement with a challenge to Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona to oppose him in state primaries. Rockefeller also unleashed an attack on President Kennedy.

Rockefeller acknowledged—and most Republican leaders agreed—that he was the underdog for the GOP nomination against Goldwater who has not yet declared himself a candidate.

Rockefeller's public declaration of his White House ambitions came five months and three days after he married the former Mrs. Margaretta (Happy) Murphy, wife of a close friend. Many had said that Rockefeller's divorce from his first wife and his subsequent remarriage would ruin his political career. However, time may repair any damage.

Rockefeller, wearing a grey suit, light blue shirt and blue tie, stepped before television cameras and 150 newsmen at the state capitol in Albany, N.Y., to read a 1,300 word statement formally announcing his candidacy.

He lashed out at President Kennedy's foreign and domestic policies and expressed hope all presidential hopefuls including Goldwater will battle him in state primaries so "their views will be clearly known."

Excellent

He said the New Hampshire primary March 10 "presents an excellent opportunity to do so, forthrightly and undiluted by fence-straddling or double talk of any kind."

He pledged a vigorous campaign in New Hampshire and promptly set out to match his words with action. He flew to New Hampshire from Albany and walked the streets in a driving rain to shake hands with people.

Republican leaders were not surprised at Rockefeller's announcement and most adopted a neutral stance publicly though privately supporting Goldwater.

Shadow Gone

"The shadow boxing is over," said New York Republican State Chairman Fred A. Young. He hailed Rockefeller's candidacy as "the decision we have been waiting for."

Indications were the New Hampshire primary will be a rough and tumble contest among Republicans. Even as Rockefeller was campaigning actively, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, said she was giving "serious consideration" to suggestions that she seek the GOP presidential nomination and enter the New Hampshire primary.

Carl L. Shipley, District of Columbia GOP chairman, urged Goldwater to declare himself immediately "to get a horse race going."

Rockefeller specifically said he would battle in the New Hampshire and California primaries and "several others." He did not name the others.

'SANTA' VISITS MINE EARLY

Broistedt, Germany (U) — Bearded and pasty white, 11 Germans were brought to safety Thursday after two weeks in the depths of a flooded iron mine they once thought would be their tomb.

Millions watched on German television as they came up one by one through a rescue shaft in a capsule shaped like a torpedo from a gallery 183 feet down. It was the most dramatic rescue in German mining history.

The men had joked after the bit of the big drilling rig broke through the wall of their cold and dark cavern in the early morning hours. Told someone was coming down to help them, one of the 11 shouted.

"He'll be like Santa Claus coming down from heaven."

Overcome

But once on the surface, these men who had been given up for dead were too overcome to speak. They tried to talk to those around the head of the shaft who had toiled for five days to bring them out alive. But they were choked with emotion and words would not come.

Electrician Adolf Herbst, 20, who was on his first mine job when the mine flooded, managed to say:

"I've had enough. I'll never go down any mine again as long as I live."

The white dust of the clay cavern — a worked-out gallery of the iron mine — covered the rescued men from head to toe. They staggered feebly when they tried to walk on the drilling platform.

Blinking

Relatives, fellow miners and spectators were kept a short distance away as the men — 10 miners and an electrician — came blinking into the bright autumn sunshine. Rescuers fitted them with dark glasses to protect their eyes, dilated by the long wait in the cavern's blackness.

In 57 minutes, all had been brought up. They were taken by stretchers to a mobile hospital unit for a quick physical checkup. Then they were reunited with weeping relatives, many of whom rode with them in ambulances to two nearby hospitals for rest and more checkups.

The 11 were the last of 100 men saved from the Lengede Iron Mine after a pit-side reservoir dam burst on Oct. 24.

HERMANN LUEBKE . . . ordeal is over.

Twenty-nine still are missing and presumed dead. Eighty-six miners escaped shortly after the disaster and three others were located and brought up through a rescue shaft last Friday. # Retraining Assists Automation Victims

Chicago (U) — A trail-blazing move to find jobs for workers displaced by automation is making headway.

One of the leaders termed a new report on the project Thursday "heartening in the sense that, with some effort, the situation is not hopeless."

The comment came from George P. Shultz, co-chairman of the Automation Fund Committee, a union-management body set up to help workers who lose their jobs with Armour & Co. when a plant closes.

The report told what has happened since the meat concern shut down its main packing plant in Fort Worth, Tex., in the summer of 1962.

In all, 1,000 employees were affected, and 650 of them were involved in the committee's retraining and placement program.

The others transferred to other Armour units, retired on pension or were hired by other firms because of their skills.

Of the 650 stranded on the labor market, 165 enrolled in training courses covering a wide range of occupations. Thus far 117 have completed training and 91 have found jobs.

Of the others, at least 45 have been placed in jobs in the Fort Worth area, but no complete census of them has been made.

Arnold R. Weber, director of the Fort Worth project, reported that the average hourly pay for male trainees who now are working is about $1.61—in contrast to a bout $2.60 they made with Armour.

The report showed: Most raced through the little mining community in Lower Saxony. Some of their relatives got the news at a memorial service for the dead.

With all haste, rescuers drilled a shaft 1.7 inches in diameter which they supplied the men with food, water and encouragement for five days. Meanwhile, they drilled a hole big enough to bring them out.

Up to the last minute, the operation was threatened with failure. The big rescue drill had to dig gingerly through crumbling layers of clay, causing repeated delays. Luckily, the breakthrough to the cave came at a point which was relatively solid.

Trembled

"Our shack just trembled a bit," Bernard Wolter, one of the trapped miners reported to the surface.

Volunteer Hans Joachim Hahlich was the first to go down the shaft and enter the cave after the breakthrough.

"The men were sitting quietly in their corner," said Lambert Ax, the second volunteer to go down. "They were told in which order they would be brought up. They obeyed all orders without objection. They were weak and we had to help them into the rescue capsule. There was no panic and there was no excitement."

Swollen Feet

Mine Director Rudolf Stein told a news conference the rescued men were suffering from swollen feet but otherwise seemed all right. He said the men would get a 40-day all-expenses paid holiday with their families. He said offers of free holidays poured in from all over Germany.

The rescue operation resembled that used to save miners Henry Throne and David Fellin, trapped by a cave-in for 14 days in a coal mine near Hazleton, Pa., last August.

Supreme Court Work Praised

... By Ex-Justice Whittaker

Omaha (AP)—Former Justice Charles E. Whittaker of the U.S. Supreme Court declared Thursday that the high court "on the whole does a surprisingly good job considering the great importance and volume of its work."

Justice Whittaker, 62, who retired from the Supreme Court because of ill health in 1962, was in Omaha to address the Nebraska Bar Association.

Farm Prices About Same

Prices received by Nebraska farmers for the commodities they produce declined a fraction of a percentage point during the month ending Oct. 15.

The mid-October index of 250 was down one point from a month earlier. The index uses the 1910-14 period as the 100-point base.

Lower prices for corn, grain sorghum, hay, alfalfa seed and potatoes were reflected in the decline for the month.

The index was 17 points below the level a year ago.

Miss Sara Shuttis, 21, 3022 So. 17th, was reported in good condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital Thursday evening after she was caught between a bus and a parking meter on the South side of O at 11th.

Witnesses said she was running to catch the bus when she was caught between a parking meter and the bus before the bus stopped to pick up passengers. The movement of the bus caused her to spin twice and fall to the sidewalk, they said.

The driver of the bus was Agnes Brinton, 58, 2245 E.

Justice Whittaker said he deplores the labeling of justices as conservatives or liberals.

The difficulty comes in agreeing on the meaning of the terms, he said, and justices decide cases in accordance with their best understanding of the law's commands.

"Naturally, it is too much to expect in highly controversial issues that even nine dedicated and able men with different backgrounds would view all things the same."

The result: "Justices frequently divide." He said such division is healthy.

Justice Whittaker said there is "no stagnation" in the Supreme Court.

He defended each American's right to criticize, however, and conceded Supreme Court verdicts are fair game.

'Raises Justified' Pay raises for members of Congress and federal judges are justified and "badly needed" to attract and hold qualified men, Edward L. Wright of Little Rock, Ark., chairman of the American Bar Association's House of Delegates, said.

The association, Wright said, supports the $10,000-a-year increase bill now before the House because there is little inducement for a man to enter politics unless he has an independent income.

"But you must remember it's the New Frontier—the Kennedy's—that we're gunning for, not one Republican or the other." She declined to take sides now, however, and said she is "still listening" to arguments for Rockefeller, Goldwater, or any other GOP possibilities.

Mrs. Batchelder said Rockefeller's appearance in Omaha last April—before the remarriage—caused a furor among some state party leaders. "We're a rather conservative group, you know," she said in pointing up the probable swing to Goldwater at nomination time.

Summary Of Conditions

The Pacific cold front will move only into western Minnesota and then begin to dissipate by Friday evening, and will extend down into a low which is expected to be in eastern Kansas and western Missouri.

This would be a good place to bring about some good rains in Nebraska, but moisture is not increasing fast enough from the Gulf, and what there is appears to be too shallow.

Thus precipitation for central or eastern Nebraska is likely to be very light. Heavier amounts should occur adjacent to the storm's center by Saturday as it moves southeastward through Missouri.

Variable cloudiness is forecast for Friday for the Nebraska-Iowa area, becoming a little cool in the eastern portion and cooler in Nebraska Friday night.

A cold front by Friday night should extend out of the eastern Kansas-western Missouri low down into eastern Texas.

Farm Prices About Same

Prices received by Nebraska farmers for the commodities they produce declined a fraction of a percentage point during the month ending Oct. 15.

The mid-October index of 250 was down one point from a month earlier. The index uses the 1910-14 period as the 100-point base.

Lower prices for corn, grain sorghum, hay alfalfa seed and potatoes were reflected in the decline for the month.

The index was 17 points below the level a year ago.

Woman Caught Between Parking Meter And Bus

Miss Sara Shutts, 21, 3022 So. 17th, was reported in good condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital Thursday evening after she was caught between a bus and a parking meter on the South side of O at 11th.

Witnesses said she was running to catch the bus when she was caught between a parking meter and the bus before the bus stopped to pick up passengers. The movement of the bus caused her to spin twice and fall to the sidewalk, they said.

The driver of the bus was Agnes Brinton, 58, 2245 E.

Clutch Pay For Truckers

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The American trucking industry has been brought to a crossroads by the organizational skill and strength of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa. A lot of words have been written about Mr. Hoffa and the awful things he has done but calling Hoffa names is not about to solve the problem he presents to the American people. What he seeks now is a nationwide contract with the trucking industry.

We are not experts in the field of transportation but it doesn't take much of an expert to figure out that the Hoffa proposal is bad medicine for the American people. He is asking for a package wage increase and other fringe benefits, the percentage cost of which he himself either cannot or has not bothered to calculate. But the wage proposal alone would be a 14 percent hike, over three years, of a rate that already stands at $3.17 per hour. According to figures of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the property trucking industry in the United States in 1960 carried total employees of 326,626 at an average wage of more than $6,500 a year.

The industry, of course, continues to grow and the proposals now being made by Hoffa would cover more than 400,000 workers. If these workers are near the $6,500 figure, which apparently includes management, they would already be substantially above the average individual income in the United States.

But perhaps you are one of those who feels that trucking isn't a very important matter to you. If so, you had better think again. In 1950, motor carriers accounted for about $4 billion of the total transportation operating revenues of the country but in 1962 they accounted for nearly $9 billion. Railroads in 1950 accounted for nearly $10 billion of total transportation operating revenues and in 1962 were at exactly the same place.

Obviously, the trucking industry is absorbing the growth in transportation in the United States and this certainly has a direct bearing on the pocketbooks of the American people. It has a bearing on the materials that go into construction of your home, the furnishings for that home, the food you eat, the clothes you wear and a multitude of other things. Trucking vitally affects the petroleum industry and a host of other related businesses such as automotive manufacturing. When costs for truckers change, the cost of living for the American people will change. If you take a job in another city, part of the expense of doing so will depend upon what it costs you to move your personal and household belongings—an item to be decided by trucking rates.

But again, perhaps you are one of those who think the trucking industry has it made, that it is a fat cat and can well afford to pay more in wages and fringe benefits. For instance, you are probably convinced that freight transportation is a lot more profitable business than passenger transportation. After all, everyone knows the problems that have faced passenger transportation in recent years. However, the Interstate Commerce Commission again shows that this is not the case. For 1961, motor carriers of property had an operating ratio (percent expenses of operating revenue) of 96.1 while passenger carriers lived with a much more satisfying ratio of 87.2 percent.

This means that truckers across the nation are operating on a profit margin of slightly less than 4 percent and any businessman will tell you that this is a pretty slim margin. One local trucking spokesman reports that a number of firms would definitely be out of business if the Teamsters received the contracts they are now seeking.

He reports that the firms, including his own, would go broke even before recourse could be had to the ICC for any rate increase, regardless of what effect an appearance before the ICC might ultimately have. The Teamsters even want a driver paid when a truck is sent "piggyback" over the railroads and that is first-class featherbedding, if we ever saw it.

So much for the economics of the situation. Even more dangerous is the thought of the Teamsters reaching the point of nationwide negotiation of contracts. Hoffa states that efforts to make a nationwide pickup will not involve a nationwide strike. Maybe not, at the present time, but what assurance of this is there and what about the future? To place in the hands of the Teamsters the power to bring to a grinding halt in a matter of minutes a vast segment of the transportation industry of the entire nation would be unthinkable.

But do not be misled. In Hoffa's mind, it is not only thinkable but very possible. The Teamsters' approach to contracting on a nationwide basis is one of the most serious threats that has ever faced this nation. It is one the trucking industry should fight with all its means and one which the Congress of the United States should review and consider with the thought of preventing.

Foreign Aid Is Hurting Business

WASHINGTON — Foreign aid has bubble-gummed in Uncle Sam's face, and he's now unhappily picking it out of his whiskers.

But plainly, aid money has built foreign factories which today are forcing American firms out of business and American workers out of work.

This is a development senators can no longer overlook as they debate this week how much money to ladle out to needy nations.

For our income-tax payments already have helped to build up competitive industries overseas, often providing them with more advanced equipment than our own.

Result: At home, one industry after another has been forced by foreign competition to cut back production, thus adding to our 4,000,000 unemployed and multimillion-dollar gold loss.

This plight reaches all the way down from such giants as steel and textiles to mushroom growers. Yet Uncle Sam, perhaps out of habit, is still building plants for nations that may take markets away from us.

Few seriously suggest that foreign aid should be cut off. With two-thirds of the world living on the starvation line and easy prey to communism, the United States in the interests of its own security must continue to help the underdeveloped nations to help themselves.

Yet in the last five years, foreign aid has built, expanded or modernized: 31 pulp and paper plants, 24 chemical plants, 13 aluminum plants, and 22 rubber processing plants. It has given another 27 loans or grants for studies or construction of petroleum refineries.

Our tax money has also built foreign shipyards, plastic plants, pottery works, engineering labs, and industrial research centers. It has been spent to develop foreign mining, manufacturing, and even merchandising.

A reported $2,000,000,000 has gone out of the U.S. Treasury to build or expand 179 foreign steel mills. This American generosity has helped to reduce our share of the world's steel market from 17 percent in 1950 to less than 6 percent.

Result: Our steel mills are operating today at only about 60 percent of their capacity.

Congressman Bob Casey points a finger, for instance, at Mexico across the border from his native Texas. In 1960, Mexico exported only 65 tons of steel plate to the U.S. Two years later, the figure had risen to 12,000 tons, which has already been more than doubled this year.

"Whose tax money," cries Casey, "do you think built the 22 Mexican steel mills under our aid program?"

For the textile industry, the aid - pampered competition has been even more disastrous. No one seems able to say exactly how many rival mills Uncle Sam has built around the world.

When Is A Pillow A Pillbox?

By MONA B. PARKER
Gwen Lindberg of the Sargent Leader was as thrilled as the rest of the girls when handsome Robert Taylor attended a Nebraska football game and sat just 15 rows ahead of her. "For the rest of the game, the binoculars which the hubbies had been using to watch the Huskers were confiscated by the wives for a better glimpse of their favorite movie star."

John Carter, the outspoken editor of the Clarks News, stated that he used to print the news letter from that district's congressman. And then one week he received letters from all three of Nebraska's representatives in Congress and they were word for word the same thing.

"So we figured they weren't the congressman's comments, at all, but the product of some propaganda mill in Washington. We just throw them in the wastebasket now."

The Lodgepole Nebraskan had very little sympathy to offer to the 92 Ord high school students who went on strike at the school cafeteria there for causes not definitely established but rumored to be in protest against rice and the size of the portions.

The controversial menu was noted by the Nebraskan—meat sauce over rice, lettuce and tomato salad, peanut butter sandwich, orange and a half pint of milk—and the doubt voiced that any family could duplicate such an offering for 30 cents.

Today's youngsters are so set in the pattern of hamburgers and pop, the Nebraskan believes, that any variation fails to meet with their approval.

A Bertrand Herald writer was reminiscing about school life in the rural districts of an earlier day, when all the pupils carried lunch along with them. Hot school lunches were an unknown quantity then . . .

Polk Progress Editor Norris Alfred has had pretty good luck at his pheasant hunting this season and doesn't know if it is because the birds are flying slower this year, whether it's because he's wearing glasses, or whether his gun is in better condition. Things have just been going good, that's all. Even his temperamental single-trigger double barrel is functioning as it should. There have been times, he explains, when he pulled the trigger and both barrels fired at the same time. "This always lifts the hunting cap a few inches off our head, and forces us back a step or two. Once when not standing too securely, we promptly assumed a sitting position."

The most popular container was a half gallon syrup pail, just about the right size for a couple of sandwiches and some fruit. There were a few fancy regular lunch pails with Thermos containers for hot and cold drinks. And stores in those days channeled their advertisements to fit the times. Items were available "especially for the lunch pail."

The Shelton Clipper discussed something that has always amused us and rather baffled us, too. With the gift-giving season not too far ahead, the Clipper is reminded of "how callously women go into a store and buy men's shorts, but when a guy goes in to buy a bra, he acts like a man making a deal with a dope peddler."

Mrs. Cecil Clark of Ord has 21 hats. But her husband doesn't mind. She doesn't buy them at a high-priced shop. She makes them at home. It all came about when the Clarks wintered in Arizona and Mrs. Clark learned the art of hat-making at a special class there.

And she combines versatility and originality with chenille and silk, sequins and flowers. One of her prettiest head pieces is a yellow silk pillbox. It started out to be a pillow, but Mrs. Clark ran into so much difficulty smocking the material that she bought a hat form, covered it with the smocked silk and added some net. It has been one of her most effective productions.

'By The People'

Lincoln, Neb.
"We here highly resolve those words been spoken or read by us, and echoed in thoughts of the listener! For no higher resolve could befit us than that mankind should advance and not continually lapse into ancient faults of grosser nature."

But lifetimes have come and gone in the century since Lincoln spoke so clearly of what brave men had done that other men might be free. It was told to us just 100 years ago at Gettysburg on November 19, 1863. Now by November 19, 1963, we must respond, all of us who respect humanity and have intelligent concern for the coming generations. No amount of military defense can save a world if crumbling gaps are allowed to persist in the moral defenses.

Government "by the people" can now speak with tremendous effect or, by our timid silence, fail tragically. Our own self-respect and the respect of an anxious world hang in the balance. What value our vaunted freedom of speech if we do not tell our senators that there is but one way to vote on human rights; that principle supersedes all political or selfish interest.

The "unfinished work" Lincoln spoke of has waited long. We must do a part now or we do "break faith with those who lie where poppies blow," those whose crosses may stand at Valley Forge, Gettysburg, Verdun, Omaha Beach or Okinawa.

Interest Rates
Malcolm, Neb.
This letter is not intended to belittle or slander any or all of the senators in the Nebraska Legislature. Anything I say here is intended as a statement of principle, not an attack on personalities. I believe to a very large degree the problems in the Nebraska Legislature have the cause and solution with the people back home. I shall try to use a sharp ax and so as Sam McKelvie used to say: "Hew to the line and let the chips fall where they may."

First of all the issues I would discredit is the idea that you cannot legislate morality. We do it every day. The alcoholic is arrested and put in jail when he gets inebriated. The user of narcotics is arrested, fined and jailed and also at public expense given medical treatment. The philanderer and adulterer is dealt with severely by both his wife and the law.

If the legal usury rate is nine percent, I can see no more good reason for a poor man to pay 30 percent for money than I can see a reason for the State Legislature to pass a law legalizing bigamy because a lot of men have girl friends.

I believe that those few unfortunate souls who have no credit responsibility should not be open game for any loan shark. I believe that society generally owes these people protection from themselves.

For these legalized usurers to say that they are loaning money to a poor man at 30 percent in the interest of humanity is ridiculous. If the poor fellow cannot get money at nine percent, he is obviously in trouble and only the man who will loan him money at no interest can, in my opinion, call himself truly a friend.

JOSEPH M. FRANSON

Beatrice, Neb.

I am an employee of the Beatrice State Home and I work on the p.m. shift. I hope The Star will publish this letter so that the public will know just what we ward attendants have on our hands here at the home and how their loved ones are taken care of.

One ward here includes 97 patients, and only two attendants, and even the two attendants are not full-time help as one attendant has to relieve in other areas for lunch and also take other patients from other wards to shows, dances, and church services.

If the state law is checked, I think it will be found that one nurse or attendant is not allowed to look after more than 30 patients. I know that people want their loved ones to have the best of care here and we will gladly give it any time. All we ask is just enough help to do a good job. Can't the people of Nebraska see if they can help us to remedy this situation?

I am including my name and address. I hope my name is not used, as I would lose my job. But, job or no job, my name may be used if necessary. I will do anything, even to losing my job, if it will help the patients of the home.

For, it entered, one hundred eighty million citizens would be incarcerated in their local jails and pens.

ETV Priorities Fixed

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission displayed good judgment when it approved the expansion of Channel 12 ETV as a matter of first priority in this growing field of communications. ETV is not communications in the normal sense of the word. It is not the same as commercial television or as other medium of communication such as newspapers, magazines, etc.

It is not the same because it is devoted entirely to educational purposes. This is why the question of expansion of the service in Nebraska is so important—because it affects the educational future of so many people of the state, both young and old.

The commission was faced with a choice of increasing the power of Channel 12 and moving of its tower to Mead for a more centralized broadcasting or the activation of a new channel, 16, in Omaha.

Clutch Pay For Truckers

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The American trucking industry has been brought to a crossroads by the organizational skill and strength of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa. A lot of words have been written about Mr. Hoffa and the awful things he has done but calling Hoffa names is not about to solve the problem he presents to the American people. What he seeks now is a nationwide contract with the trucking industry.

We are not experts in the field of transportation but it doesn't take much of an expert to figure out that the Hoffa proposal is bad medicine for the American people. He is asking for a package wage increase and other fringe benefits, the percentage cost of which he himself either cannot or has not bothered to calculate. But the wage proposal alone would be a 14 percent hike, over three years, of a rate that already stands at $3.17 per hour. According to figures of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the property trucking industry in the United States in 1960 carried total employees of 326,626 at an average wage of more than $6,500 a year.

The industry, of course, continues to grow and the proposals now being made by Hoffa would cover more than 400,000 workers. If these workers are near the $6,500 figure, which apparently includes management, they would already be substantially above the average individual income in the United States.

But perhaps you are one of those who feels that trucking isn't a very important matter to you. If so, you had better think again. In 1950, motor carriers accounted for about $4 billion of the total transportation operating revenues of the country but in 1962 they accounted for nearly $9 billion. Railroads in 1950 accounted for nearly $10 billion of total transportation operating revenues and in 1962 were at exactly the same place.

But we doubt it. It was just a question of whether the women would run politics or the men who run politics. As usual the women fared well.

Dutchess county New York, the home precinct the late FDR could never carry, has finally gone Democratic. They gained control of the county board the first time in 50 years. They also came out on top in Poughkeepsie the first time in 33 years. This was probably the biggest and most significant upset in the nation. The super confident Republican candidate for mayor lost each of the city's 26 precincts and came out on the short end of a 7,772 to 3,695 vote.

Across the river in another county is notorious Newburgh, another conservative Republican bastion. This is the city in which City Manager Joseph Mitchell won national attention by making war on the city's poor.

Newburgh went into this week's election with a city council dominated 4 to 1 by Republicans who were proposing to extend the crackdown on the welfare clients. It came out of the election with the anti-crackdown Democrats in charge of the city council by 3 seats to 2.

The commission was faced with a choice of increasing the power of Channel 12 and moving of its tower to Mead for a more centralized broadcasting or the activation of a new channel, 16, in Omaha. The major drawback to the Omaha program is that it would serve such a limited audience.

It would involve a broadcast frequency that cannot be picked up on the average television set and would not cover as broad a broadcast area. On the other hand, the movement and strengthening of Channel 12 will serve a broad area, including Omaha, and will be on a frequency common to all television sets.

It would seem that there is hardly any question as to which would come first, Channel 12 or Channel 16. It is to the credit of the commission that in one of its first official acts as a state agency, it has displayed intelligence and courage. The commission has served the welfare of the entire state and done so to the detriment of none.

Words To Be Remembered

The parting words of Ned Phye, retiring city administrator at Fremont, should ring like an alarm clock throughout Nebraska.

Phye, who is transferring his administrative talents to Colorado, admonished Nebraska to liberate its city governments so they can fulfill their responsibilities.

He referred to Nebraska law as one limiting cities to housekeeping practices, providing obsolete limitations which haven't been revised in more than 20 years. He criticized the League of Municipalities for being badly understaffed and ineffective.

Phye's analysis of the Nebraska situation carries more truth than fiction. It approaches an answer to a question raised years ago by Lord Bryce, British student of American government. Bryce concluded that the American governing system from township to national government made a sense. But he noted that the American city was a founding, seriously limited in its taxing power, prevented by statutory limitations from meeting its responsibilities, a servile creature of the state legislatures. Phye's answer to this is greater home rule.

Nebraska formed most of its municipal law in pioneer times when it was necessary to provide orderly processes for administration. But today the towns have broadened responsibilities. They are the first line of defense against population decline. They have the first responsibility in providing situations and homes for rural Nebraskans leaving the farms. The bulk of the educational load has fallen upon them. So also has the urgency to supply the services and recreational facilities for their entire region. And it is the communities, rather than the state, which must cultivate industry and attend to the diversification of the state's economy. Such things require greater access to capital and greater freedom in implementing plans. Thus far little has been done to help.

Gwen Lindberg of the Sargent Leader was as thrilled as the rest of the girls when handsome Robert Taylor attended a Nebraska football game and sat just 15 rows ahead of her.

"For the rest of the game, the binoculars which the hubbies had been using to watch the Huskers were confiscated by the wives for a better glimpse of their favorite movie star."

John Carter, the outspoken editor of the Clarks News, stated that he used to print the news letter from that district's congressman. And then one week he received letters from all three of Nebraska's representatives in Congress and they were word for word the same thing.

"So we figured they weren't the congressman's comments, at all, but the product of some propaganda mill in Washington. We just throw them in the wastebasket now."

The Lodgepole Nebraskan had very little sympathy to offer to the 92 Ord high school students who went on strike at the school cafeteria there for causes not definitely established but rumored to be in protest against rice and the size of the portions.

The controversial menu was noted by the Nebraskan—meat sauce over rice, lettuce and tomato salad, peanut butter sandwich, one orange and a half pint of milk—and the doubt voiced that any family could duplicate such an offering for 30 cents.

Today's youngsters are so set in the pattern of hamburgers and pop, the Nebraskan believes, that any variation fails to meet with their approval.

A Bertrand Herald writer was reminiscing about school life in the rural districts of an earlier day, when all the pupils carried lunch along with them. Hot school lunches were an unknown quantity then...

Polk Progress Editor Norris Alfred has had pretty good luck at his pheasant hunting this season and doesn't know if it is because the birds are flying slower this year, whether it's because he's wearing glasses, or whether his gun is in better condition. Things have just been going good, that's all. Even his temperamental single-trigger double barrel is functioning as it should. There have been times, he explains, when he pulled the trigger and both barrels fired at the same time. "This always lifts the hunting cap a few inches off our head, and forces us back a step or two. Once when not standing too securely, we promptly assumed a sitting position."

The most popular container was a half gallon syrup pail, just about the right size for a couple of sandwiches and some fruit. There were a few fancy regular lunch pails with Thermos containers for hot and cold drinks.

And stores in those days channeled their advertisements to fit the times. Items were available "especially for the lunch pail."

The Shelton Clipper discussed something that has always amused us and rather baffled us, too. With the gift-giving season not too far ahead, the Clipper is reminded of "how callously women go into a store and buy men's shorts, but when a guy goes in to buy a bra, he acts like a man making a deal with a dope peddler."

Mrs. Cecil Clark of Ord has 21 hats. But her husband doesn't mind. She doesn't buy them at a high-priced shop. She makes them at home. It all came about when the Clarks wintered in Arizona and Mrs. Clark learned the art of hat-making at a special class there.

And she combines versatility and originality with chenille and silk, sequins and flowers. One of her prettiest head pieces is a yellow silk pillbox. It started out to be a pillow, but Mrs. Clark ran into so much difficulty smocking the material that she bought a hat form, covered it with the smocked silk and added some net. It has been one of her most effective productions.

'By The People'

Lincoln, Neb.
"We here highly resolve..."

How many times have those words been spoken or read by us, and echoed in thoughts of the listener! For no higher resolve could befit us than that mankind should advance and not continually lapse into ancient faults of grosser nature.

But lifetimes have come and gone in the century since Lincoln spoke so clearly of what brave men had done that other men might be free. It was told to us just 100 years ago at Gettysburg on November 19, 1863. Now by November 19, 1963, we must respond, all of us who respect humanity and have intelligent concern for the oncoming generations. No amount of military defense can save a world if crumbling gaps are allowed to persist in the moral defenses.

Government "by the people" can now speak with tremendous effect or, by our timid silence, fail tragically. Our own self-respect and the respect of an anxious world hang in the balance. What value our vaunted freedom of speech if we do not tell our senators that there is but one way to vote on human rights; that principle supersedes all political or selfish interest.

The "unfinished work" Lincoln spoke of has waited long. We must do a part now or we do "break faith with those who lie where poppies blow," those whose crosses may stand at Valley Forge, Gettysburg, Verdun, Omaha Beach or Okinawa.

It is widely accepted that presidential candidates who can capture the big cities of the nation are going to be the winners. These cities are in the big states and determine, under the present winner-take-all system, how their whopping electoral totals will be registered in the electoral college.

Translated into national terms, Kentucky offers fresh warning that the cities can outvote the boondocks. Republicans who hope to capture the South's electoral votes will need the latest information not just on the big-city vote generally but on the Negro vote in the South's big cities. It is perhaps more formidable than they think.

Little Learned In Election Returns

WASHINGTON—The off-year elections just concluded offer little clue to the national temper. They rarely do.

Party ties are weakest in these years when candidates for President and Congress and most governors are not on the ballot. The voters tend to work out their frustrations on local issues, which in this big and diverse country differ mightily from state to state.

The party organizations can learn in off years what their current weaknesses are and how the voters tend to regard their second-level candidates. But this must await analysis of the returns by local leaders who understand their people and problems.

For example, Philadelphia elected its Democratic mayor by a reduced margin, but nobody can be quickly sure that the predominantly white wards turned against him and he was "saved" by Negro wards. Obviously, Philadelphians like him less than they did his Democratic predecessors, but it is generally felt that he is less able than they were.

The Kentucky race for governor offers food for thought about whether Goldwater Republicans can use the civil rights situation to their advantage. Republican Louis Nunn thought he could, and he certainly managed to reduce the winning margin of Democrat Edward Breathitt below normal Democratic levels.

Nunn featured a strong attack on an anti-discrimination order issued by the retiring Democratic governor, Bert Combs, who was, of course, supporting Breathitt. This helped in western Kentucky, which has strong Confederate ties, and cut in half the usual Democratic majority.

But the price was high because Nunn did considerably less well in Louisville County than Republicans did in the last election. Thus Democrats are saying that Republicans sacrificed Louisville for western Kentucky and got the worst of the bargain.

In this connection it is worth noting that Kentucky's two Republican senators, John Sherman Cooper and Thruston Morton, are not segregationists and did not use the issue.

The question for Republicans is: did Nunn merely use the wrong tactics and get too far out on the segregationist limb, or does any use of the civil rights issue alert the Negroes in the cities and get them to the polls?

It is widely accepted that presidential candidates who can capture the big cities of the nation are going to be the winners. These cities are in the big states and determine, under the present winner-take-all system, how their whopping electoral totals will be registered in the electoral college.

Translated into national terms, Kentucky offers fresh warning that the cities can outvote the boondocks. their loved ones are taken care of.

One ward here includes 97 patients, and only two attendants, and even the two attendants are not full-time help as one attendant has to relieve in other areas for lunch and also take other patients from other wards to shows, dances, and church services.

If the state law is checked, I think it will be found that one nurse or attendant is not allowed to look after more than 30 patients. I know that people want their loved ones to have the best of care here and we will gladly give it any time. All we ask is just enough help to do a good job. Can't the people of Nebraska see if they can help us to remedy this situation?

I am including my name and address. I hope my name is not used, as I would lose my job. But, job or no job, my name may be used if necessary. I will do anything, even to losing my job, if it will help the patients of the home.

An Omaha educator Thursday defended the composition of the State Educational Television (ETV) Commission in the wake of Omaha charges the commission is stacked in favor of Lincoln.

Dr. Vaughn Phelps, superintendent of Omaha Westside Community Schools, said he feels the commission makeup "excellent." He said he is not displeased that the commission temporarily bypassed activating Omaha's ETV channel 16.

"We are particularly interested in the commission giving channel 16 as high a priority as possible," Phelps said, "but I feel the commission has acted in good faith and made its decision based on what's best for the entire state."

Phelps is president of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television as well as being a member of the metropolitan Omaha ETV committee.

Priorities Granted
The commission Wednesday granted network construction priority to stations near Mead and Lexington.

Sen. Sam Klaver of Omaha said the action was contrary to the intent of the Legislature. He called the commission meeting a "mock hearing."

Sen. George Syas said he feels the commission is "overloaded" with Lincoln representatives.

Phelps called Dr. Steven Watkins, superintendent of Lincoln public schools and commission chairman, "probably the one man in Nebraska most familiar with the value of educational television to a school system, a community and the entire state."

Phelps said he wanted it clearly understood that "the chancellor of the state university, the state education commissioner, the normal board co-ordinator and the council's representative on the commission represent the entire state impartially and not Lincoln just because they happen to reside there."

Fight Pledged
Earlier, Syas served notice in the Legislature that there will be a floor fight against confirmation of commission members.

Recommendations from the Committee on Committees urge confirmation. Syas won unanimous consent to postpone action until next Tuesday.

Klaver said that the 1965 Legislature may revamp the commission "in order that more balance exists."

The commission, he said, is "completely ignoring the intent of the Legislature. The action by this stacked commission will hurt the University's budget and other areas controlled by the Legislature."

Omahan In Race For Demos' Nod Vs. Cunningham

Omaha (AP)—Al J. Baker, 42, announced Thursday he has filed for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Second District.

Baker, a tire and rubber company foreman, seeks the seat now held by Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb. Baker ran for the Senate in 1960 and has been a candidate for the City Council twice.

Baker said he opposes the congressional pay increase and favors a tax cut for those with incomes of less than $10,000 a year.

Madison, Wis. (AP)—The Republican majority in the Wisconsin State Senate paid Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds in kind words Thursday for his advice on what GOP candidates should do in the presidential preference primary next April.

Reynolds mailed invitations to five leading Republicans advising them not to "shrink from an intra-party fight" in the historic Wisconsin contest just because of the possible favorite-son candidacy of Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis.

Thursday the Senate adopted a resolution commending Reynolds for his "tremendous inspiration and great leadership in promoting open primaries," and suggesting that he himself enter as a favorite son on the Democratic ticket, where he might contend with President John F. Kennedy.

New York (AP)—An intense but slow-moving coastal storm broke the extended drought in large areas of the northeast with record rainfall Thursday.

The blustery rainstorm was the heaviest in New York City in 33 months, the heaviest in central Pennsylvania in more than a year and the heaviest in New England this year.

High winds and high tides accompanied the storm up the seaboard from its birthplace off the Florida-Georgia-South Carolina coast, causing some minor flooding and wind damage.

Outweighed
But the relief from the drought far outweighed any damage and Weather Bureau personnel said more rain is needed.
"This type of rainfall, coming down steadily over a period of two days was just what we needed," said Nelson Kauffman, climatologist stationed in Harrisburg, Pa. "We're still far behind our normal precipitation total, but this has helped out the immediate situation."

"However, it will take quite a few rains like this to bring us back to normal."

Ban Lifted
Gov. William W. Scranton declared a critical forest fire situation over and lifted a ban imposed Oct. 15 on smoking and campfires in Pennsylvania woodlands.

New York State extended the big game hunting season to make up for the eight-day delay in its opening while parched woods were closed last month as a fire precaution.

On eastern Long Island, where over three inches of rain fell in 24 hours, truck farmers immediately began receiving higher prices for potatoes and cauliflower because rain prevented harvesting to meet demand.

Going Up
Potatoes, which had been as low as $1.50 a hundredweight, sold for $1.85 and cauliflower, down to 80 cents a crate two weeks ago, went for $2.

In mid-afternoon, Weather Bureau forecaster Max Trautfeld said rain in Manhattan for a 24-hour period surpassed the 2.6 inches which fell in February, 1961, and topped the 1912 record of 2.26 inches for a Nov. 7th.

This Will Take Top Honors

While this recipe prescribes top-of-range cooking, this is a good dinner for the electric skillet, too. As a pleasant contrast to the Stuffed Flank Steak, made flavorful with

1/2 cup cider vinegar and toss again.
Fresh or frozen melon balls, with a dash of lemon juice, will freshen the palate and increase enjoyment of the hearty main course.
And for dessert, how about coffee or butter pecan ice cream?

STUFFED FLANK STEAK
(Servings — 6)
1 1/2 lb. flank steak
2 cups dry bread crumbs or croutons
2 (8 oz.) cans tomato sauce
1/2 cup minced onion
1 Tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon curry powder (optional)
2 Tablespoons pure vegetable oil
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sliced celery
2 carrots, sliced

Score one side of flank steak. Combine bread crumbs, 1/2 can tomato sauce, onion, parsley, salt, pepper and curry powder. Arrange stuffing on unscored side of steak. Roll up and fasten with skewers.

Brown in hot vegetable oil in Dutch oven. Add remaining tomato sauce, water, salt, celery, and carrots. Cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Add water if necessary and turn meat in sauce once or twice.

You'll Like This One For Delectable Crepes--

Here are directions for making French pancakes and for a mushroom-filled version, Crepes Duxelles:

FRENCH PANCAKES: CREPES
1 cup less 2 tablespoons sifted flour
3 eggs
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 cup milk (about)

Sift flour and salt together into a bowl. Add eggs, beating until there are no lumps. Add butter, then gradually stir in milk, adding just enough to make batter consistency of light cream. Let batter stand an hour or two before using. Making crepes: Set a crepe pan or six-inch skillet over moderate high heat. Add a bit of butter and swirl to coat pan. Now, working quickly, pour a little batter in pan, lift pan and swirl batter to coat bottom of pan evenly. (You'll need only a scant two tablespoons batter; pour any excess in bowl.) Cook til golden brown on one side, then loosen the crepe with a thin spatula and turn it with your fingers to lightly brown the other side. Makes about twenty crepes.

CREPES DUXELLES
This is made with twelve crepes, stacked and filled layer-cake style. To make the filling you will need these ingredients:
1 1/2 lbs. fresh mushrooms
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, minced
2 shallots or onions, minced
2 tablespoons flour
6 tablespoons heavy cream

Chop the mushrooms very fine. Melt four tablespoons of the butter or margarine in a heavy skillet; add garlic, shallots (or green onions) and mushrooms, cook very slowly, stirring gently. Add more butter if needed; continue cooking until mushrooms turn very dark. Sprinkle with flour and cook until mixture shrinks a little. (This is classic duxelles sauce used in many recipes.) Now, to enrich it for your crepes, stir in the cream. Add salt and pepper to taste; cook until thickened. Have twelve crepes ready and warm. Put several spoonfuls of sauce on each crepe; pile up layer-cake style. Cut into wedges, serve to four or six guests with remaining duxelles sauce.

Serve Them For Coffee, Brunch

A kofee klatsch for a couple of friends, or a more formal brunch—either will be special with these Tiny Nutty Buns. The magic flavor combination is a favorite with youngsters from 2 to 92—peanut butter and jelly.

TINY PEANUT BUTTER BUNS
(Makes about 3 1/2 dozen)
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) margarine or butter

You'll Like This One For Delectable Crepes--

FRENCH PANCAKES: CREPES

- 1 cup less 2 tablespoons sifted flour
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 eggs
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 1 cup milk (about)

Sift flour and salt together into a bowl. Add eggs, beating until there are no lumps. Add butter, then gradually stir in milk, adding just enough to make batter consistency of light cream. Let batter stand an hour or two before using. Making crepes: Set a crepe pan or six-inch skillet over moderately high heat. Add a bit of butter and swirl to coat pan. Now, working quickly, pour a little batter in pan, lift pan and swirl batter to coat bottom of pan evenly. (You'll need only a scant two tablespoons batter; pour any excess in bowl.) Cook til golden brown on one side, then loosen the crepe with a thin spatula and turn it with your fingers to lightly brown the other side. Makes about twenty crepes.

CREPES DUXELLES

This is made with twelve crepes, stacked and filled layer-cake style. To make the filling you will need these ingredients:

- 1 1/2 lbs. fresh mushrooms

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 shallots or onions, minced
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 6 tablespoons heavy cream

Chop the mushrooms very fine. Melt four tablespoons of the butter or margarine in a heavy skillet; add garlic, shallots (or green onions) and mushrooms, cook very slowly, stirring gently. Add more butter if needed; continue cooking until mushrooms turn very dark. Sprinkle with flour and cook until mixture shrinks a little. (This is classic duxelles sauce used in many recipes.) Now, to enrich it for your crepes, stir in the cream. Add salt and pepper to taste; cook until thickened. Have twelve crepes ready and warm. Put several spoonfuls of sauce on each crepe; pile up layer-cake style. Cut into wedges, serve to four or six guests with remaining duxelles sauce.

Hard Sauce

Beat 2/3 cup butter with 2 cups sifted powdered sugar until very fluffy. Add 1 (9-ounce) can crushed pineapple and 1/2 cup cream and continue beating until very well blended. Pile into serving dish and chill thoroughly.

Serve Them For Coffee, Brunch

A koffee klatsch for a couple of friends, or a more formal brunch—either will be special with these Tiny Nutty Buns. The magic flavor combination is a favorite with youngsters from 2 to 92—peanut butter and jelly.

TINY PEANUT BUTTER BUNS

- (Makes about 3 1/2 dozen)
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) margarine or butter
- 1/2 cup warm water (105 - 115 F.)
- 2 packages or cakes yeast, active dry or compressed
- 2 eggs, beaten

Add lukewarm milk mixture, eggs and half the flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in enough additional flour to form a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic about 8-10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Combine Planters Crunchy Peanut Butter and remaining 6 tablespoons margarine or butter. Beat until smooth.

Punch down dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board and divide into 4 equal pieces. Roll each piece to an oblong, 14 x 8 inches. Spread with peanut butter mixture. Roll up as for jelly roll to form 14 inch rolls. Cut into 2 inch triangles. Press through center of bun with a pencil making a deep crevice. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about one hour.

Senate Tacks Bans On Foreign Aid Bill

Washington (U) — The Senate overrode administration opposition Thursday night to write into the $3,742,365,000 foreign aid bill an amendment aimed at banning any U.S. assistance for Egypt.

Earlier the Senate had voted to prohibit any military or economic aid to Yugoslavia and to keep the lid on assistance to Indonesia, whose leader was denounced as "corrupt."

The amendment affecting Egypt was adopted by a 65 to 13 vote. It would bar help under the foreign aid program or any other act to any nation which the president determines is engaging in or preparing for aggressive military action against the United States or any country receiving American assistance.

Aimed At U.A.R. — Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, and other sponsors made clear the amendment was aimed principally at President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, offered a substitute designed to give the president greater discretion in cutting off aid. But this was rejected by a 46 to 32 vote.

Gruening's amendment is identical with a provision in the foreign aid authorization measure already passed by the House.

The action was taken in the first night session on the bill after earlier voice vote adoption, without protest, of the amendment banning any military or economic assistance to Yugoslavia.

The vote on Yugoslavia was taken after comparatively short debate and without objection from Sen. Fulbright, floor manager of the bill. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said it was designed to cut off all aid to that country except surplus foods.

It would remove the discretionary power the president now has to give military or economic aid to Yugoslavia. However, it does not touch the controversial issue of most-favored treatment in trade with Yugoslavia.

Chief Works His 'Magic' At Hospital

By DAVE HENDRICKSON
Star Staff Writer

The magic that only a real Indian can work lured into a merry trance most of the small boys and girls at Lincoln's Orthopedic Hospital Thursday afternoon.

The magician was Chief Spotted Back (Walter Hamilton) of the Omaha tribe, who was dressed in full Indian garb complete with war bonnet.

It was the same costume and same magic that stopped traffic in Paris and London this past summer when Spotted Back toured Europe boosting Nebraska and its Indian lore.

He toured the wards briefly and spoke to each of the patients who could not come to the assembly.

Among the many he talked to was Loutresha Harvey, 16, an Indian girl from Cha'ron whose mother is a full-blooded Cheyenne.

He succeeded Don F. Newville of Lincoln.

Other officers named were Raymond C. Hansen of Blair, first vice president; Mark A. Crowl of Columbus, second vice president; Morris D. Patton of Norfolk, secretary-treasurer, and Jesse Benson

Omahan R. C. Crowl Elected To Head Insurance Agents

He succeeds Don F. Newville of Lincoln.

Other officers named were Raymond C. Hansen of Blair, first vice president; Mark A. Crowl of Columbus, second vice president; Morris D. Patton of Norfolk, secretary-treasurer, and Jesse Benson of Wymore, state-national director.

Nebraska's internationally famous Indian, Chief Spotted Back, was presented a special merit award for his contributions in the promotion of Nebraska.

Spotted Back, otherwise known as Walter Hamilton of the Omaha Indian tribe of Macy, recently toured Europe with a Nebraska delegation in an effort to boost tourism in the state.

Robert Manley, University of Nebraska history professor, delivered the main luncheon address.

The three-day convention ends Friday evening with a banquet and dance.

Legislative Process Hearings Under Way

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislative Council Study Committee on Legislative Processes began its public hearings Thursday on suggestions of how Nebraska lawmakers can expedite their work and what steps can be taken to reduce errors.

Emory P. Burnett, assistant bill drafter and enrollment and review attorney, offered two possible methods to speed up lawmaking processes:

enable their adding one more committee which would help relieve the loads now carried by 12 committees.

On the matter of eliminating the requirement for full reading of all bills, Burnett suggested that today's methods of rapid printing of bills—making them available to all members in printed form—has removed the necessity of the bills' being read aloud to ensure that lawmakers know their contents.

Burnett also suggested that some thought be given to making it more difficult to amend bills after they have passed their initial floor test.

Burnett was asked by the committee if the enrollment and review staff could take on the responsibility of making certain that every bill requiring an appropriation was properly coordinated with the budget bill.

—With the increase to 49 members which will become effective with the 1965 Legislature, senators should consider adding one more standing committee which could expedite handling of bills.

—Consideration should be given to a constitutional amendment to remove the present requirement that each bill must be read in full prior to final approval.

Time-Consuming — Burnett said it would be a "very time-consuming job" for enrollment and review personnel and would probably necessitate doubling its present staff of three persons.

The assistant bill drafter, who was invited to appear before the committee, prefaced his suggestions with the comment that he was "absolutely convinced" after long study on the matter that the Nebraska Legislature was the "most democratic and most responsive to the will of the people" of any law making body in the nation.

He urged that the committee proceed carefully to ensure that its efforts to expedite work would not result in diminishing the democratic aspect of its processes.

12 Committees Now — The Legislature now has 12 standing committees to which bills are sent for public hearing and determination of whether they shall be considered by the full Legislature.

Burnett suggested that the addition of six more senators to the coming session would enable their adding one more committee which would help relieve the loads now carried by 12 committees.

Earlier, the Senate voted 57 to 29 to ban foreign aid to any nation that asserts jurisdiction for fishing purposes over the high seas off its coasts farther than the United States recognizes.

LEGAL REEFERS URGED

London (U)—A British medical magazine suggested Thursday it might be a good idea to legalize marijuana.

ly not addictive within the current official definitions of the word."

Marijuana—also known as pot or tea—is the dried and shredded leaves of a variety of hemp commonly smoked in cigarette form by persons seeking a mild narcotic bang.

The Lancet said getting high on alcohol tends to make people rip and tear, thus causing severe erosion of police manpower, whereas smoking pot has a pacifying effect.

Possession and importation of marijuana are against the law in Britain, where the stuff is listed as a dangerous drug. Taking issue with this legal view, the sober medical magazine—the Lancet—asserted that the effects of marijuana are probably no worse than those of alcohol, if as bad. At least, it won't give you cirrhosis of the liver. Furthermore, the Lancet said editorially:

Also, the magazine pointed out, if marijuana cigarettes (sometimes called sticks of tea or reefers) were legally on sale the government could reap a nice harvest in taxes.

"Its effect is almost certain-

Do not mix another drink with your usual brand of liquor until you read about this remarkable new Canadian

Here's an elegant Canadian whisky that may well make you forget all about using "the usual"—when mixing your favorite drinks.

1. Smoother-tasting than any whisky on the market. Compare Windsor Canadian with your regular brand. Make two highballs. Make one with "the usual," the other with Windsor. Notice how much smoother Windsor is.

2. Fine tasting, too. Windsor Canadian has all the traditional mellow flavor and elegant fine taste of a great Canadian.

3. If you're used to paying an "imported price," expect to be surprised. For the price of Windsor is much, much less... and right in line with the leading (and so-called popular-priced) whiskeys.

4. Windsor Canadian is proudly presented in this country by National Distillers, your added assurance that Windsor is truly superior.

5. Compare the price, compare the taste of Windsor. Once you do, we think you'll seriously consider making Windsor your regular whisky. Remember: Windsor Canadian is an impressive and elegant import with an "everyday" whisky price.

Senate Tacks Bans On Foreign Aid Bill

Washington (AP) — The Senate overrode administration opposition Thursday night to write into the $3,742,365,000 foreign aid bill an amendment aimed at banning any U.S. assistance for Egypt.

Earlier the Senate had voted to prohibit any military or economic aid to Yugoslavia and to keep the lid on assistance to Indonesia, whose leader was denounced as "corrupt."

The amendment affecting Egypt was adopted by a 65 to 13 vote. It would bar help under the foreign aid program or any other act to any nation which the president determines is engaging in or preparing for aggressive military action against the United States or any country receiving American assistance.

Aimed At U.A.R.

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, and other sponsors made clear the amendment was aimed principally at President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, offered a substitute designed to give the president greater discretion in cutting off aid. But this was rejected by a 46 to 32 vote.

Gruening's amendment is identical with a provision in the foreign aid authorization measure already passed by the House.

The action was taken in the first night session on the bill after earlier voice vote adoption, without protest, of the amendment banning any military or economic assistance to Yugoslavia.

The vote on Yugoslavia was taken after comparatively short debate and without objection from Sen. Fulbright, floor manager of the bill. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said it was designed to cut off all aid to that country except surplus foods.

It would remove the discretionary power the president now has to give military or economic aid to Yugoslavia. However, it does not touch the controversial issue of most-favored treatment in trade with Yugoslavia.

Unless Essential

Proxmire also sponsored the move to prohibit resumption of now suspended aid to Indonesia unless the president should determine it essential to U.S. national interest and notifies Congress beforehand.

Earlier, the Senate voted 57 to 29 to ban foreign aid to any nation that asserts jurisdiction for fishing purposes over the high seas off its coasts farther than the United States recognizes.

This move, sponsored by Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., was aimed mainly at Ecuador, Chile and Peru which have claimed jurisdiction 200 miles seaward. Kuchel said some American vessels have been seized in that area and their crews fined and sentenced to prison, and it's high time to make clear "we will not help nations that violate freedom of the seas."

The Senate has before it now a $3.7-billion foreign aid blueprint. It is below the $4.5 billion asked by Kennedy and $4.2 billion recommended by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee but above the $3.5 billion voted by the House.

Legislative Process Hearings Under Way

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislative Council Study Committee on Legislative Processes began its public hearings Thursday on suggestions of how Nebraska lawmakers can expedite their work and what steps can be taken to reduce errors.

Emory P. Burnett, assistant bill drafter and enrollment and review attorney, offered two possible methods to speed up lawmaking processes:

—With the increase to 49 members which will become effective with the 1965 Legislature, senators should consider adding one more standing committee which could expedite handling of bills.

—Consideration should be given to a constitutional amendment to remove the present requirement that each bill must be read in full prior to final approval.

12 Committees Now

The Legislature now has 12 standing committees to which bills are sent for public hearing and determination of whether they shall be considered by the full Legislature.

Burnett suggested that the addition of six more senators to the coming session would enable their adding one more committee which would help relieve the loads now carried by 12 committees.

On the matter of eliminating the requirement for full reading of all bills, Burnett suggested that today's methods of rapid printing of bills—making them available to all members in printed form—has removed the necessity of the bills' being read aloud to ensure that lawmakers know their contents.

Burnett also suggested that some thought be given to making it more difficult to amend bills after they have passed their initial floor test.

Burnett was asked by the committee if the enrollment and review staff could take on the responsibility of making certain that every bill requiring an appropriation was properly coordinated with the budget bill.

Time-Consuming

Burnett said it would be a "very time-consuming job" for enrollment and review personnel and would probably necessitate doubling its present staff of three persons.

The assistant bill drafter, who was invited to appear before the committee, prefaced his suggestions with the comment that he was "absolutely convinced" after long study on the matter that the Nebraska Legislature was the "most democratic and most responsive to the will of the people" of any law making body in the nation.

He urged that the committee proceed carefully to ensure that its efforts to expedite work would not result in diminishing the democratic aspect of its processes.

LEGAL REEFERS URGED

London (AP)—A British medical magazine suggested Thursday it might be a good idea to legalize marijuana.

Marijuana—also known as pot or tea—is the dried and shredded leaves of a variety of hemp commonly smoked in cigarette form by persons seeking a mild narcotic bang.

Possession and importation of marijuana are against the law in Britain, where the stuff is listed as a dangerous drug. Taking issue with this legal view, the sober medical magazine—the Lancet—asserted that the effects of marijuana are probably no worse than those of alcohol, if as bad. At least, it won't give you cirrhosis of the liver. Furthermore, the Lancet said editorially:

"Its effect is almost certainly not addictive within the current official definitions of the word."

The Lancet said getting high on alcohol tends to make people rip and tear, thus causing severe erosion of police manpower, whereas smoking pot has a pacifying effect.

Also, the magazine pointed out, if marijuana cigarettes (sometimes called sticks of tea or reefers) were legally on sale the government could reap a nice harvest in taxes.

Chief Works His 'Magic' At Hospital

Star Staff Writer

The magic that only a real Indian can work lured into a merry trance most of the small boys and girls at Lincoln's Orthopedic Hospital Thursday afternoon.

The magician was Chief Spotted Back (Walter Hamilton) of the Omaha tribe, who was dressed in full Indian garb complete with war bonnet.

It was the same costume and same magic that stopped traffic in Paris and London this past summer when Spotted Back toured Europe boosting Nebraska and its Indian lore.

Spellbinder

The 74-year old feather-clad spellbinder tickled a smile from almost every kid who saw him. Only two of the younger patients seemed undecided whether to swoon or scream.

As excitement spread like a prairie fire, Spotted Back passed out helper-sized fireman helmets to the smaller patients.

"Just like Red Riding Hood," he mused after placing a helmet on one small boy.

Spotted Back addressed the assembled boys and girls in a frolicsome mood, and even danced briefly upon request. Asked to say some words in the Omaha Indian language, he wished all the boys and girls good luck and said he hoped they would be well soon.

He toured the wards briefly and spoke to each of the patients who could not come to the assembly.

Among the many he talked to was Loutresha Harvey, 16, an Indian girl from Chadron whose mother is a full-blooded Cheyenne.

Omahan R. C. Crowl Elected To Head Insurance Agents

He succeeds Don F. Newville of Lincoln.

Other officers named were Raymond C. Hansen of Blair, first vice president; Mark A. Crowl of Boettcher of Columbus, second vice president; Morris D. Patton of Norfolk, secretary-treasurer, and Jesse Benson of Wymore, state-national director.

Nebraska's internationally famous Indian, Chief Spotted Back, was presented a special merit award for his contributions in the promotion of Nebraska.

Spotted Back, otherwise known as Walter Hamilton of the Omaha Indian tribe of Macy, recently toured Europe with a Nebraska delegation in an effort to boost tourism in the state.

Robert Manley, University of Nebraska history professor, delivered the main luncheon address.

Win Boosts Labor's Prospects

London (A) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's conservative government lost a seat in Parliament Thursday in a special election that boosted the opposition Labor Party's political prospects.

Results of the prime minister's own by-election will not be announced until Friday morning. He was not in serious danger of defeat, but the size of his majority will be taken as a barometer of the Conservatives' political fortunes.

Howie, an active trade union leader, won a margin of 3,749 votes over Sir John Fletcher-Cooke, Conservative.

It was 21,108 votes for Howie and 17,359 for Fletcher-Cooke in a voter turnout almost as large as that of the 1959 general election.

In 1959 the Conservative winner had a majority of 5,019. He was Dr. Charles Hill, a popular figure known as the "radio doctor" for his broadcasts. Hill, who left Commons to become a life peer, ran as a conservative-liberal.

Without Hill's personal appeal, and bucking a liberal candidate as well as labor, Fletcher-Cooke took a bad fall for the conservatives. The Tories' per cent of the total vote plummeted 15 per cent, while Labor polled 3 per cent more than previously.

Liberal Gets 5,000 Malvern Benjamin, candidate of the Liberals who are trying to win the protest vote from those who won't back the laborites, got 5,001 votes.

The Luton decision was the first since Douglas-Home, 60, took over as prime minister from Harold Macmillan last month against angry opposition from some Conservatives.

Douglas-Home must win a seat in Commons to hold his position as head of government, for which he gave up his peerage and seat in the House of Lords. There was little doubt that he would win in the so-called safe conservative district where he chose to run against divided opposition.

The Conservatives took the Perthshire seat in the 1959 elections by a margin of 12,000. The Douglas-Home contest resulted from the death of W. G. Leburn, the previous holder of the Kinross-West Perthshire seat in Commons.

"We will win back Luton next time," he added.

6th Order On Sunday Law Issued

Lancaster District Judge Elmer Scheele Thursday issued an order restraining enforcement of the Sunday closing law against Allen's Alley Inc. at 1410 South.

Judge Scheele set hearing for 2 p.m. Wednesday on an injunction suit filed by the firm against County Atty. Paul Douglas and Sheriff Merle Karnopp.

The suit, which contends the law, LB710, is invalid, alleges that it attempts to grant certain persons special and exclusive privileges and immunities, is an unreasonable, discriminatory and arbitrary exercise of police power, gives preference to one religious belief over another, and contains vague language.

Allen's Alley contends that over a period of years it has built up a "big patronage" on Sunday which is a "substantial proportion of total dollar volume of sales each week."

Unless officials are permanently enjoined from enforcing the law, which prohibits the sale of certain commodities on Sunday, the plaintiff contends its business will be irreparably damaged and injured.

Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles has issued restraining orders for five other Lincoln firms which have filed similar suits.

155 Sign To Vote As Election Office Stays Open Late

One hundred and fifty-five persons registered to vote after 5 p.m. Thursday as the Election Commissioner's Office stayed open during evening hours for the first time since before the last election.

Election Commissioner B. J. Holcomb said total registrants during the day totaled 233, bringing total registrations during the week to 444.

Many of the new registrations are due to letters recently mailed to persons who had moved notifying them that they would have to re-register for their new addresses.

Option Transfer To NU Receives Unicam OK, 34-0

The Legislature Thursday gave final passage on a 34-0 vote a bill permitting the Game Commission to transfer an option to purchase property in downtown Lincoln to the University of Nebraska.

The measure, LB3, was sponsored by Sen. Fern Orme of Lincoln.

The Game Commission has no use for the land and the University wants it for expansion purposes.

Powers: Moon Shot Vital—Reds Or Not

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

"It's important to go to the moon regardless of what Russia does," Lt. Col. John A. (Shorty) Powers of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said Thursday in Lincoln.

Powers, the "voice of the astronaut," is here in connection with the University of Nebraska's aerospace science week.

"It's desirable we should get there first," Powers said in a news conference. "It's essential to get there as part of our space program."

Powers noted a dislike for the term, "race to the moon," but said, "If America advocates its technological pre-eminence, then it will also advocate its political position in the world."

Powers said "no know-how breakthrough is needed, just hard-nose engineering to get a man on the moon."

"It's a matter of the will of the people," he said in noting that this year's requested appropriation of $5.7 billion is under Congressional consideration with half the fiscal year gone.

Russia has a bigger rocket and has launched two manned capsules simultaneously, he said.

"Triple Box Score" But in terms of total numbers of manned-crafts and satellites, the U.S. has "a triple box score," he said.

Powers said he was "very impressed" by the University campus and his first visit to Lincoln.

His appearance for NASA is aimed at stimulating young men and women to achievement in engineering and science.

"We used to say the sky is the limit, but it has no limits and neither do the challenges and opportunities," he said.

Powers talked to an advanced ROTC class Thursday and will address the Kiwanis Club and a Lincoln High School convocation on Friday.

Support Builds For Legislative Body Of Bishops To Give Pope Assistance

Vatican City (A) — A view that modern popes need a legislative body of bishops to help run the Roman Catholic Church gained ground Thursday at the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Speaker after speaker took the floor in St. Peter's Basilica during debate on the schema, "bishops and government of dioceses," to argue for some kind of special bishop's body that would meet regularly here with the pope.

Only two of 18 cardinals, archbishops and bishops who spoke Thursday had unqualified praise for the Vatican Curia, sole authoritative body between pontiffs and their bishops scattered about the world.

Supreme One prelate — Archbishop Ermengildo Florit of Florence, Italy — suggested that the special body be called the "supreme sacred central congregation" and be placed above all 12 congregations that make up the heart of the Vatican Curia.

"In this way there would be formed a true episcopal college with the pope as head," the Italian archbishop said. "It would be a concrete application and proper explanation of the true concept of collegiality."

Collegiality is a theological concept that sees all bishops of the world sharing papal authority over the entire church. It was seen in a council test vote last week as the predominant view of the 2,300 council fathers on the issue of papal-episcopal power and how the two are interrelated.

Backing Archbishop Florit's remarks were such prelates as Archbishop Owen McCann of Capetown, speaking for the bishops of South Africa and Northern Rhodesia; Archbishop Hierulanius Van Den Burgt of Pontianak, speaking for 30 fellow Indonesian bishops; and Coadjutor Archbishop Paul Gouyet of Rennes, France.

Fight Heresy The Curia — 12 congregations, 3 tribunals and 6 offices that include the secretariat of state — began with creation of the Holy Office in 1542 to fight heresy. The Curia grew up in a period when ecclesiastical government was being more centralized.

Bishop Piotr Kalwa of Lublin, speaking for Poland's bishops, said there always had been direct relationship between bishops and popes before the growth of the Curia.

The Rev. Gustave Weigel,

Jesuit theologian from Woodstock, Md., explained later to newsmen that the 1545-1563 Council of Trent "made sainthood of centralization." He added:

"All human things turn out badly, if you wait long enough. In the council we are now going from centralization back to collegiality — and eventually we'll probably go back again to centralization."

$5,000 Gift Boosts NU Student Loan Program

A $5,000 grant from the Woods Charitable Fund, Inc., to the University of Nebraska Foundation may do the work of $125,000, Harry R. Haynie foundation president, said.

The grant, received this week, will support the University's student loan program through the United Student Aid Funds, Inc. (USA) of New York, a non-profit corporation which will underwrite, on the basis of this deposit, $62,500 in bank loans to Nebraska students.

Haynie said the University has been told that there is a possibility that the USA will match the University's deposit, providing another $62,500 in guaranteed loans.

Ridon E. Teten, director of the University's Scholarships and Financial Aids, said the Woods' grant will fill a great need for University students.

He said his office had requests totaling more than $50,000 for loans from students, "but until the Woods' grant we had no funds on deposit to support these loan requests."

In September, the University deposited $2,000 with the USA, and these funds permitted 38 students to obtain a total of $25,000 in loans from their hometown banks. Teten said. Last year, 51 students were served in this manner.

Frontier Boards 8,373 Persons In State In October

By The Associated Press Frontier Airlines reported Thursday it boarded 8,373 passengers in Nebraska in October, a 24% increase over October a year ago.

The airline said increases included Lincoln 19%, Omaha 10, Scottsbluff 32, North Platte 50, Grand Island 15, Hastings 74, Kearney 16, McCook more than double, Alliance 55, Chadron 24, Sidney nearly double.

Win Boosts Labor's Prospects

London (AP) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's conservative government lost a seat in Parliament Thursday in a special election that boosted the opposition Labor Party's political prospects.

Laborite Will Howie, running in the English industrial city of Luton, turned the tables on the Tories and was elected by a handsome margin, while Sir Alec himself was running for a seat in Parliament in a heavily conservative Scottish Country district.

Results of the prime minister's own by-election will not be announced until Friday morning. He was not in serious danger of defeat, but the size of his majority will be taken as a barometer of the Conservatives' political fortunes.

3,700 Margin
Howie, an active trade union leader, won a margin of 3,749 votes over Sir John Fletcher-Cooke, Conservative.

Hearing of the laborites' Luton victory, Douglas-Home commented in Perthshire: "We will win back Luton next time," he added.

"In the last Parliament we lost Kelvin Grove, North Lewisham and Torrington at by-elections and won all of them back at the general election.

A new election must be called by the government within the next year.

The grant, received this week, will support the University's student loan program through the United Student Aid Funds, Inc. (USA) of New York, a non-profit corporation which will underwrite, on the basis of this deposit, $62,500 in bank loans to Nebraska students.

Haynie said the University has been told that there is a possibility that the USA will match the University's deposit, providing another $62,500 in guaranteed loans.

Rldon E. Teten, director of the University's Scholarships and Financial Aids, said the Woods' grant will fill a great need for University students.

He said his office had requests totaling more than $50,000 for loans from students, "but until the Woods' grant we had no funds on deposit to support these loan requests."

In September, the University deposited $2,000 with the USA, and these funds permitted 38 students to obtain a total of $25,000 in loans from their hometown banks, Teten said. Last year, 51 students were served in this manner.

Dear Abby

Don't Be Ashamed—Help Her

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am in the sixth grade and my problem is I am ashamed of my mother. Please don't think I'm a bad person. Abby, but it's hard for people who have American mothers to understand when somebody else's mother is a foreigner. When she comes to school it is very embarrassing when the teachers ask her what she said so many times. My mother has been in this country since I was a small baby, so I don't know why she never learned to speak English. My father is a good-looking American man and I think sometimes he is ashamed of her, too. She is a good and kind mother, but I can't help how I feel. How can I solve my problem and not hurt my mother?

HALF AND HALF

DEAR HALF AND HALF: Ask your father to encourage your mother to enroll in an adult education class and study English. If she agrees wonderful. And you could help her study. If she will not, she is probably too shy. But don't be ashamed of her. English is no reflection on your mother's character, and she probably suffers more humiliation than you know.

DEAR ABBY: A new girl came to work in our office. She is a sweet girl, and we like her but, Abby, here is the problem. She brings her lunch in a brown paper bag (as we all do and she sets it up on the closet shelf with the other girls' lunches. She always brings salami, sar-

MEADOW LANE

There seems to be a very important holiday approaching in the near future — Thanksgiving — and already busy suburban residents are preparing for the big day. And have you ever thought of the many preparations that must be done before Thanksgiving, and the problems the average housewife must go through to prove herself the perfect hostess? But there is plenty of activity in the suburban areas this week — enough to keep everyone on their toes and the wear and tear of the approaching holiday tucked away — for at least another week.

There seems to be considerable entertaining going on in Meadow Lane and especially at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean C. McMurry Jr. Mr. and Mrs. McMurry have as their houseguests, Mr. McMurry's parents and grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Dean C. McMurry, and R. W. Cadenhead of Shamrock, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. McMurry and Mr. Cadenhead arrived on Wednesday and will be visiting for an indefinite period of time.

Bridges, Mrs. Bernice Baughn, Mrs. Stanley Longman and Mrs. Stanley Rosenberg.

Candlelight Service

The wedding of Miss Mary Louise Noel of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Noel of Roseland, and Jack LaVergne Irwin of Lincoln, son of Mrs. James L. Irwin of Hastings, and the late Mr. Irwin, took place Saturday afternoon, Nov. 2, in the candlelighted chancel of Westminster Presbyterian Church.

The lines of the double ring service were read at 4 o'clock by Dr. Elmer E. Freed, and Dale Fleck, organist, played the wedding music. The vocal soloist was Conrad Morgan.

Mrs. Frank Reade of Orange, Calif., was the matron of honor and bride's only attendant and wore a sheath of ruby red faille. Her pillbox cap was briefly veiled with illusion, and she carried a crescent of white feathered carnations and autumn foliage.

Serving as best man was Dave Noble, Jr., of Omaha, and seating the guests were Loyal Gerberding, Beatrice; Darrell Herman and Burdette Brown, Hastings; and Dale Van Dusen.

The bride chose traditional white satin for her wedding gown. Long sleeves and a bateau neckline accented the Empire bodice, which was patterned with seed pearls and crystal beading, and the bell-shaped skirt was complemented by a Watteau panel of the satin which extended into an aisle-wide train. A pillbox cap of jeweled satin held her bouffant veil of illusion, and she carried a white Bible marked with a single white glabella.

Upon their return from a honeymoon to Florida and Nassau, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin will make their home in Lincoln. A graduate of the University of Nebraska, the bridegroom is a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

Questions And Answers

Josephine Lowman

Q. "I am 14 years old, 5 feet five inches tall, and weigh 140 pounds. How much weight should I lose? My bust measures 36 inches, waist 30 inches and hips 40 inches. I am large boned as are all of my family. I want to lose four inches from my waist and hips. Are there any exercises which will help? I would appreciate any help you can give me because I am desperate. Please, please print this in the paper."

A. The weight for your age is 121 pounds. However since you have a large build you could perhaps weigh more. You should lost at least 10 or 12 pounds.

Do this by cutting out between meal snacks, substituting fresh fruit for dessert and taking smaller helpings with no seconds. But, eat a well-balanced diet!

Special exercises will help you reduce the measurements you mention. If you or any of my readers would like to have my tested waist and hip slimming exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflets 3 and 6 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star.

Q. "I am 5 feet 6 inches tall and weigh 120 pounds. By dieting I have lost 15 pounds but I have a roll of fat around my hips which I can't seem to get rid of. I have had three children and I know I can't ever be as slender as before. My measurements are bust 34 inches, waist 27 inches and hips 39 inches. Please tell me what they should be. I also have a larger abdomen now."

A. You certainly are not overweight. Even if you have a very small frame you are still a bit on the underweight side. When this is true you can do wonders redistributing your weight with exercise. Your hips are out of proportion. Try to lose at least two or three inches from this measurement.

Your abdominal muscles are no doubt stretched from pregnancy. The abdominal exercises will remedy this. There is no reason why you cannot have the same figure you had before.

Some Impossible Bids

B. Jay Becker

QUIZ

There are some sequences of bidding that, for practical purposes, are regarded as impossible—that is, you cannot have a hand that fits the bid or bids you've made. In each of the following five cases, specify whether the last bid by South is Possible or Impossible:

1. West	North	East	South
1♦	2♦	3♦	4♦
2. South	West	North	East
2NT	Pass	3♥	Pass
3. West	North	East	South
Pass	1♠	4♥	5♠
4. South	West	North	East
1NT	Pass	2♠	Pass
2NT	Pass	3♠	Pass
3NT
5. South	West	North	East
1♦	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♦	Pass	4♠	Pass
4NT

1. Possible. The cuebid by North shows a huge hand with a probably void in diamonds. South, for the four diamond bid, may have a hand certain to produce a game and yet not be in a position to choose the best trump suit. For example, he may hold: ♠J752 ♥J874 ♦93 ♣AK6. Rather than attempt to guess between spades and hearts, he should let North choose the trump suit. South reflects his uncertainty by responding to the cuebid with a cuebid.

2. Impossible. The two no-trump bid shows specifically 22 to 24 points, notrump distribution and all-around strength. South must not punish partner for responding with three hearts by raising him to six. North may have a hand with only 2 or 3 points. The most that South can do to encourage a slam is make a cuebid, such as four clubs or diamonds, which would imply heart support and slam possibilities.

3. Possible. South may have a slam-going hand where his chief concern is the possible loss of two heart tricks. The five spade bid asks North to bid six if he has first or second round control of hearts. South might have: ♠K9752 ♥73 ♦A ♣AQJ94.

4. Impossible. The two spade bid by North shows weakness and asks South to pass, and the three spade bid simply repeats the plea. South cannot bid over and again the values he showed originally when he opened with a notrump.

5. Impossible. North is permitted to pass three spades, since the double raise, though highly invitation to game, is not a forcing bid. If North chooses to go to game—possibly with a doubtful hand—South has no right to punish him now by making a slam try. Such a sequence of bids is illogical, since it puts the partnership in a position where there is no way of arriving at four spades.

Questions And Answers

Josephine Lowman

Q. "I am 14 years old, 5 feet five inches tall, and weigh 140 pounds. How much weight should I lose? My bust measures 36 inches, waist 30 inches and hips 40 inches. I am large boned as are all of my family. I want to lose four inches from my waist and hips. Are there any exercises which will help? I would appreciate any help you can give me because I am desperate. Please, please print this in the paper."

A. The weight for your age is 121 pounds. However since you have a large build you could perhaps weigh more. You should lost at least 10 or 12 pounds.

Do this by cutting out between meal snacks, substi-

tuting fresh fruit for dessert and taking smaller helpings with no seconds. But, eat a well-balanced diet!

Special exercises will help you reduce the measurements you mention. If you or any of my readers would like to have my tested waist and hip slimming exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflets 3 and 6 to Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star.

Q. "I am 5 feet 6 inches tall and weigh 120 pounds. By dieting I have lost 15 pounds but I have a roll of fat around my hips which I can't seem to get rid of. I have had three children and I know I can't ever be as slender as before. My measurements are bust 34 inches, waist 27 inches and hips 39 inches. Please tell me what they should be. I also have a larger abdomen now."

A. You certainly are not overweight. Even if you have a very small frame you are still a bit on the underweight side. When this is true you can do wonders redistributing your weight with exercise. Your hips are out of proportion. Try to lose at least two or three inches from this measurement.

Your abdominal muscles are no doubt stretched from pregnancy. The abdominal exercises will remedy this. There is no reason why you cannot have the same figure you had before.

Mayor's Committee Has Coffee

The members of Mayor Dean Petersen's Veterans Day committee met for a coffee on Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. L. A. Ehlersen, the committee chairman.

The group is planning the Mayor's Veteran's Day coffee to be held on Monday morning, Nov. 11, at Hotel Cornhusker.

Plan PTA Activities

The November meeting of Bancroft PTA will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the community room of the school.

The program, "The New Approach to the Study of Arithmetic," will be given by Mrs. Dorcas Cavett, educational television teacher.

The members of Hayward PTA will continue their coffee series on Monday with a 10 o'clock coffee for the mothers of kindergarten pupils. The meeting will be held at the school.

An open house has been planned by the members of Hawthorne PTA to be held Friday evening, Nov. 15, at the school beginning at 7 o'clock. Classrooms will be open for the parents to visit, and the evening also will include a bake sale.

Some Impossible Bids

QUIZ

There are some sequences of bidding that, for practical purposes, are regarded as impossible—that is, you cannot have a hand that fits the bid or bids you've made. In each of the following five cases, specify whether the last bid by South is Possible or Impossible:

- |              |           |          |           |
|--------------|-----------|----------|-----------|
| 1. West 1♦   | North 2♦  | East 3♦  | South 4♦  |
| 2. South 2NT | West Pass | North 3♥ | East Pass |
| 3. West Pass | North 1♠  | East 4♥  | South 5♠  |
| 4. South 1NT | West Pass | North 2♠ | East Pass |
| 5. South 1♦  | West Pass | North 1♠ | East Pass |
| 6♦           | 3♠        | 4♠       | Pass      |

1. Possible. The cuebid by North shows a huge hand with a probably void in diamonds. South, for the four diamond bid, may have a hand certain to produce a game and yet not be in a position to choose the best trump suit. For example, he may hold: ♠J752 ♥J874 ♦93 ♣AK6. Rather than attempt to guess between spades and hearts, he should let North choose the trump suit. South reflects his uncertainty by responding to the cuebid with a cuebid.

2. Impossible. The two no-trump bid shows specifically 22 to 24 points, notrump distribution and all-around strength. South must not punish partner for responding with three hearts by raising him to six. North may have a hand with only 2 or 3 points. The most that South can do to encourage a slam is make a cuebid, such as four clubs or diamonds, which would imply heart support and slam possibilities.

3. Possible. South may have a slam-going hand where his chief concern is the possible loss of two heart tricks. The five spade bid asks North to bid six if he has first or second round control of hearts. South might have: ♠K9752 ♥73 ♦A ♣AQJ94.

4. Impossible. The two spade bid by North shows weakness and asks South to pass, and the three spade bid simply repeats the plea. South cannot bid over and again the values he showed originally when he opened with a notrump.

5. Impossible. North is permitted to pass three spades, since the double raise, though highly invitation to game, is not a forcing bid. If North chooses to go to game—possibly with a doubtful hand—South has no right to punish him now by making a slam try. Such a sequence of bids is illogical, since it puts the partnership in a position where there is no way of arriving at four spades.

POSTCARD by Stan Klapalek

As we were saying yesterday — (as Fray Luis de Leon said when he got out of Spanish jail) — we were saying about status.

This is man's undying right to make his neighbor unequal. It can be achieved through cars with higher tail fins. You can get it by discovering a restaurant where the tourists don't ordinarily go.

You get status by being different. There is status right now in having beards. And there is status in shaving with a hard-to-get British stainless steel blade.

It is a job to keep up with yourself.

Here is a status symbol worked out by Canadian psychologists: "D divided by K equals S."

"D" is for doors. "K" is for keys. "S" is for status.

Count your keys and let's be off to the status fields.

Said the thinking Canadian medics: "A janitor has 20 keys and has to open 20 doors. His status therefore is 1."

"A secretary has one key. She opens two doors. Her status score is 2."

"The president of the company has all doors opened for him. He needs no keys. His status is zero — the best you can get."

Well, immediately I took stock of my own keys but somehow cannot come down to zero.

The reason for this is I have a Mexican copper ashtray that we keep full of keys. I cannot divide them into doors for I don't know what doors they open.

They don't seem to open any doors in this scatter. But I am afraid to throw them away for fear it will turn out they fit something we locked a long time ago.

Some years ago I threw away a safe deposit box key. I didn't remember we had a safe deposit box and that key certainly looked like something I had picked up in an unthinking moment.

I heaved it down the hill. And when I confessed this to the bank president, you would have thought I was in there with a Halloween mask and a sawed off.

Bank presidents like organized people. People who don't throw keys away.

Since I am always borrowing from bank presidents, I keep the extra keys in the ashtray. My ashtray runneth over but I am welcome at the bank.

I carry a car key but seldom have any use for it. Our car is generally out doing household errands. And if I do get it, I have to take a lot of things for the cleaner off the front seat and put them in the back.

It is hardly worth it. Sometimes I wonder why I carry a car key.

One good reason is that the other keys to the car — there must be four extras — are often lost.

People say: "Can I borrow the car key? I've looked high and low."

That is the reason I carry the car key. I don't think it gives me any status.

Another key I intended to carry was a key to a Key Club. There are many posh saloons these days that you get a key to. It gives you lots of status. Because people without keys have to go to ordinary, open saloons.

When I finally got the "key" to the Key Club, it turned out to be a card.

Nothing but a little old card that you showed at the door.

So the key situation is rather odd around here. We have a card that is a "key." And we have an ashtray full of keys with no doors to open. And the simple division of doors by keys by cards is enough to put you on that pill that dissolves twice as fast as ordinary aspirin.

Status is a warm headache. Distributed by The Chronicle Features

Eitel Hikes Workmen's Compensation Reserve Ratio

State Labor Commissioner Lambert Eitel Thursday hiked the Workmen's Compensation reserve ratio one-half per cent across the board.

Eitel said the hike was necessary to make sure employer contributions for 1964 will be equal to unemployment benefits paid out by the department.

Eitel estimated the department will pay out $9.6 million in 1964.

The maximum benefit payment in Nebraska, Eitel said, was recently raised from $34 a week to $38 a week.

The commissioner's action is subject to approval by Governor Morrison.

Acting State Employment Division Director John Sidner said the action does not mean an increase in employer payment rates. He said rates are actually going down, according to the risk involved.

Partisan Legislature May Be Campaign Issue If Morrison, Burney Run

By DAN McNULTY
Associated Press

The partisan Legislature may become an issue between Gov. Frank Morrison and Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney should they oppose each other in the Nebraska gubernatorial election next November.

Morrison, a Democrat, is against switching from an nonpartisan to partisan Legislature. Burney, a Republican, favors such a change.

Morrison has announced he will seek reelection while Burney has already filed for the Republican nomination. Republican party leaders, with some Democratic help, are conducting a petition campaign to place the partisan Legislature proposal on the ballot in 1964. The voters must approve such a constitutional amendment.

Most legislators want to keep things as they are. Such an amendment was overwhelmingly rejected during the regular session.

Morrison said he thinks the partisan Legislature is a matter for the people to decide. But he added he is against a partisan legislative system and may oppose it if it gets on the ballot.

"I think we have the best state government in Nebraska. The fact we have the lowest per capita tax rate in the country should make us hesitant about changing our form of government."

On the other hand, Burney

feels the whole American governmental system is based on a two party system. "I certainly think that the two party system is not perfect, but it is the best that has been found so far."

Burney said there would be less confusion in the current special session of the Legislature under a partisan system.

Morrison also disagreed with Burney's contention that the party organization should get behind candidates before the primaries. Burney said the selection should be made by the central committee, but pointed out other candidates could still seek the nomination.

Morrison said "my personal conviction is that the people and not the professional politicians should pick the governor. I see no useful purpose to be served by a group of politicians getting together and telling the people who to vote for governor."

Burney is felt to have the backing of most professional politicians in the GOP. He is expected to draw opposition for the nomination, however. Other potential GOP candidates include former Gov. Val Peterson, publisher Fred Seaton whom Morrison defeated in 1962 and State Sen. Richard Marvel. Coincidentally, all three come from Hastings.

Partisan Legislature May Be Campaign Issue If Morrison, Burney Run

By DAN McNULTY
Associated Press

The partisan Legislature may become an issue between Gov. Frank Morrison and Lt. Gov. Dwight Burney should they oppose each other in the Nebraska gubernatorial election next November.

Morrison, a Democrat, is against switching from an nonpartisan to partisan Legislature. Burney, a Republican, favors such a change.

Morrison has announced he will seek reelection while Burney has already filed for the Republican nomination.

Republican party leaders, with some Democratic help, are conducting a petition campaign to place the partisan Legislature proposal on the ballot in 1964. The voters must approve such a constitutional amendment.

Most legislators want to keep things as they are. Such an amendment was overwhelmingly rejected during the regular session.

Morrison said he thinks the partisan Legislature is a matter for the people to decide. But he added he is against a partisan legislative system and may oppose it if it gets on the ballot.

"I think we have the best state government in Nebraska. The fact we have the lowest per capita tax rate in the country should make us hesitant about changing our form of government."

On the other hand, Burney

feels the whole American governmental system is based on a two party system. "I certainly think that the two party system is not perfect, but it is the best that has been found so far."

Burney said there would be less confusion in the current special session of the Legislature under a partisan system.

Morrison also disagreed with Burney's contention that the party organization should get behind candidates before the primaries. Burney said the selection should be made by the central committee, but pointed out other candidates could still seek the nomination.

Morrison said "my personal conviction is that the people and not the professional politicians should pick the governor . . . I see no useful purpose to be served by a group of politicians getting together and telling the people who to vote for for governor."

Burney is felt to have the backing of most professional politicians in the GOP. He is expected to draw opposition for the nomination, however. Other potential GOP candidates include former Gov. Val Peterson, publisher Fred Seaton whom Morrison defeated in 1962 and State Sen. Richard Marvel. Coincidentally, all three come from Hastings.

Howard Wins MVP Award

Teaneck, N.J. (AP) — Elston Howard has a very special reason for wanting to perform even better in 1964 than he did last season — when he did well enough to win the American League's Most Valuable Player award.

"I want to do it for you know who—Yogi Berra," said the durable catcher of the New York Yankees Thursday, just after he had been accorded one of baseball's greatest honors.

Berra, who relinquished the regular Yankee catching job to Howard in 1960, was named manager of the club two weeks ago after Ralph Houk was elevated to the general manager's post.

"I owe Yogi a great deal," said Howard. "He helped me a lot — along with Bill Dickey — when the Yankees decided to convert me from an outfielder into a catcher. Now I've got a chance to repay him."

"I've got to admit I was surprised when Yogi was named MVP. But I guess I shouldn't have been. He has real good baseball sense. I said four or five years ago that Yogi would make a good manager some day but I didn't think it would come so soon."

Howard led the Yankee hitters with a .287 batting average, and the 6-foot-2, 205-pounder paced the American League catchers with a .994 fielding average, was fifth in the league with 28 home runs and eighth in runs batted in with 85.

Missed Goals

"I missed a couple of personal goals last year," he said. "But all in all, I think this was about the best season I've had. I consider it a real solid year, better than 1961, when I hit .348. That's because I got so many solid hits this year."

Howard drew 15 first place votes and was named on all 20 ballots cast by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America. He easily outdistanced Detroit outfielder Al Kaline, 248 points to 148.

Southpaw pitching ace Whitey Ford of the Yankees was third with 125 points. He was followed by Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew, and the Boston pair of outfielder Carl Yastrzemski and relief pitcher Dick Radatz.

Ford, who won 25 of 31 decisions, drew three first place votes to one each for Kaline and Yankee outfielder Tommy Tresh. Kaline finished second in the batting race with .312 to Yastrzemski's .321, drove in 101 runs and hit 27 home runs.

Radatz posted the league's lowest earned run average, 1.98, and Killebrew was the home run leader with 45.

Howard, first Negro ever to win the AL honor, is the fourth straight Yankee and eighth in the last 10 years to be named.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

Overall class rankings of high school football teams, based on season's performances.

By Don Forsythe

"PREP TOPS CLASS A RATINGS" says our one and only loyal prep sports writer, Don Forsythe.

The schedules are as follows:

CREEGHTON PREP		NORTHEAST
Omaha South	2 8 0	Lincoln Southeast	6 3 0
Lincoln North	3 0 0	Fremont	3 0 0
Omaha Westside	4 3 0	Grand Island	3 0 0
Omaha Benson	4 3 0	Lincoln High	4 3 0
Omaha North	4 3 0	Beatrice	4 3 0
Omaha Central	4 3 0	Hastings	4 3 0
Bishop Ryan	4 3 0	Fairbury	4 3 0
Omaha West	4 3 0	Omaha Westside	4 3 0
C. B. Aber Lincoln	4 3 0	Bellevue	4 3 0

This is the best??? Wouldn't it be nice and loyal to have a Lincoln Journal and Star plaque given to the hometown winning team? On this plaque should be written "NORTHEAST ROCKETS TIE CREEGHTON BLUE JAYS FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP".

Lincoln sports writer, Don Forsythe, did you know the Northeast defensive team was the least scored upon this year? Did you know Northeast played all their games from the Nebraska Class A field? Regardless of lack of hometown newspaper support — We challenge your right to place Creighton Prep ahead of Lincoln Northeast without first defeating them!

The Northeast team and their Class A coach, Art Bauer, deserve the support of their people and their paper. Had Lincoln High or Southeast ended up their season with a 9-0 record we know the publications and outrage would have been quite different.

Through the power of the press you have told this group of citizens coming from Northeast that it isn't what you do or how good you do it—it's who you know, kids!

We say: "NORTHEAST ROCKETS TIE CREEGHTON PREP FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP".

NORTHEAST CITIZENS (29 signers)

Comment — It is unfortunate that a playoff between the Lincoln and Omaha champions has not been originated. It would have determined the most worthy team for state honors this year.

The same was true in 1961 when Northeast and Omaha North each finished with 9-0 records and Northeast was rated No. 1. There were no letters from Northeast fans that year asking that North and Northeast share the title.

Creighton Prep and Northeast each boast fine football teams and fine coaches. It is true that Northeast has allowed fewer points than any other Class A team (40).

Creighton Prep also has a fine defense, having allowed only 52 points. The Junior Jays scored 207 points during the season while Northeast scored 151.

In the final analysis it is the two contenders' records against common opponents Lincoln High and Omaha Westside that have to be carefully considered.

Northeast defeated Lincoln High, 19-12, and Westside 14-6. Creighton Prep defeated Lincoln High, 14-0, and Westside 27-20. That gives the Junior Jays a six-point advantage in the comparison.

Ratings are not a question of "loyalty," but rather a sincere attempt to equate the relative strengths of teams which compete in different areas.

SATURDAYS HE SERVES UP TDS

Cosmo Iacavazzi, the Princeton full-back who has taken over the scoring lead among major college players, balances a tray at Princeton's Osborn Field House where he picks up $60 a month as a waiter. The junior from Scranton, Pa., scored three touchdowns against Brown last week to run his total points to 66.

Prep League Airing Today

Representatives of the schools involved in the proposed Metropolitan high school athletic league will meet today at 9 a.m. at Kellogg center amid all kinds of conjecture, problems and hopes.

The interest has intensified of late, primarily because of the desires of Pius X of Lincoln, Boys Town of Omaha and Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs, Iowa, to be included in any planning.

The 14 schools who will be represented today are Lincoln High, Northeast and Southeast from Lincoln; South, Benson, Central, Westside, Creighton Prep, Bishop Ryan and Bellevue from Omaha, plus Hastings and Grand Island.

Ralph Beechner of the Lincoln school system said there is no league at the present time and that the problems to be ironed out are vast.

He said there had been some misunderstanding that the Lincoln schools might not play one another and he wanted it clear that this would not be the case under any circumstances. The misunderstanding grew from the idea that the Lincoln schools might not all be in the same division and would have to play one another in non-league games. No alignment has been determined.

Dr. Steven Watkins, superintendent of schools in Lincoln, said there were several schools wanting into the league if it were formed. He said the Pius letter for application would be read at the meeting Friday.

He added that obviously there would have to be a cutoff somewhere on the size of the league.

Two of the schools at the meeting do not know at this time how they will go until the league is established. Grand Island and Hastings are waiting to see what happens.

They are currently affiliated with the Big Ten and do not want to jeopardize their standing there without improving themselves. Part of their primary concern is continuing their relationships with the Lincoln schools.

"There are advantages and disadvantages," Grand Island principal Paul Sell said of going into the league. "We don't want to lose the Lincoln schools. We would be curtailed in our relationships if they went in and we didn't. And if we go with the new league, we would have to sever some of our ties out state."

It is a fair assumption that whichever way Grand Island goes, so will Hastings and vice versa.

Meanwhile, the outstate schools which are now playing the schools pondering the new conference are concerned about their future.

E. L. Gustafson, principal at North Platte and current president of the Big Ten Conference, says the Big Ten would sorely miss Grand Island and Hastings. But he said:

"Other conference schools have made no effort to sway the judgment of Grand Island and Hastings."

As for the Lincoln schools, Gustafson said they had enjoyed their association with them in athletics and, if possible, would like to continue them.

Columbus principal W. N. Floyd noted that he was biased to begin with, and that he hated to lose Grand Island and Hastings.

"We have always had a high regard for the Big Ten," Floyd said, "so naturally we would be biased by Grand Island and Hastings moving out of the league since they are our biggest schools."

Floyd said that he understood that a major factor in the new league was the full program of athletics, including all the minor sports. He agreed that they were vital, but he said he thought in time all the schools in the Big Ten would offer competition in these areas. He said Columbus was starting gymnastics and would compete in swimming next year.

Floyd said he had looked forward to playing more Lincoln schools because it would make a more representative schedule. He noted that Columbus was playing less Class B schools and wanted to continue the trend.

Principal Gerald Meyer of Fremont said he would be concerned if the segments of the league were so large that Fremont would lose several games.

He said he was more concerned about basketball since he had heard the league would play a double round robin which would just about complete the schedule.

Meyer said he hated to lose any competition with Lincoln schools.

Beatrice principal F. E. Colgan expressed the same thing, noting the proximity of the two cities and the financial gains of the Lincoln schools and Beatrice when they played.

Fairbury principal Harold Dietrich was not alarmed, pointing out that Fairbury was not large enough to compete year in, year out. He said they had enjoyed their relationships and would continue them if possible.

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce is quietly looking into the proposed league, and president Willard Townsend issued the following statement:

"We will be interested in learning what the total plan will be for this conference. And when this information is made available, I will presume that we will study it."

Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs said Thursday that it had not been notified if it were in or out and sent a letter to the officials of the proposed new league seeking admittance.

SPORT SIGNALS

Sports Editor, The Star

Plenty Of Tallies

Saturday's Nebraska-Kansas match may not see any more touchdowns scored than in last year's wild fray, but if both teams live up to their offensive capabilities, fans in the packed Memorial Stadium should see enough to satisfy their appetite.

And the distribution is likely to be more even than a year ago when the Huskers smothered the Jayhawk gridgers with a lightning-like opening half en route to the 40-16 win.

Little doubt remains as to how Kansas will go into the game—ready for bear. But how Nebraska's gridgers will feel is anybody's guess. It isn't likely that they will have the same fire in their eyes as in last year's clash at Lawrence, but there are still those who say last year's result against the Jayhawks was a fluke. Whether the Huskers feel strongly enough about the matter to blast the Jayhawks again remains to be seen.

We'll call it close: NEBRASKA 27, Kansas 22.

Other Big Eight Games

OKLAHOMA 34, Iowa State 16... The Sooners may be about ready to open their late season spurt, ala last year.

MISSOURI 28, Colorado 0... Buffs' defense can't compare with Nebraska's, and Missouri should roll in high fashion in high altitude at Boulder.

OKLAHOMA STATE 14, Tulsa 12... A first win for Phil Cutchin at Stillwater.

Kansas Always Fierce On Husker Home Sod

Lawrence, Kan. — One of the imponderable mysteries of Big Eight football is how Kansas, which trails Nebraska 19-47-3, in their ancient all-time series, consistently plays the Cornhuskers so ruggedly on the latter's home soil.

Note, please, that the Jayhawkers never have won three successively at Lawrence since this series was founded in 1892. Yet they have authored two such streaks at Lincoln, second of which is still alive. Fact is, the Jayhawkers have bagged six of the last eight decisions in Huskerland, losing only in '53 and '55 after cracking a lengthy drought with a 13-7 break through in 1947.

Furthermore, since the modern conference was formed in 1928, Kansas has suffered only one wide defeat at Lincoln, a 0-31 trouncing in 1941. They have lost six other verdicts by a touchdown or less, another by nine points and two more by two touchdowns. The clubs played a 13-13 tie in 1937.

Against this odd backdrop the two eleven pitch their 70th battle Saturday. At stake is the Huskers' half-game Big Eight lead, wrought by a 13-

12 squeeze over Missouri last Saturday. NU is 4-0 in conference play, 6-1 overall. Oklahoma's defending champions, 3-0, are the only other club with a perfect conference record heading into the November stretch run.

Kansas is 2-2 in league play and 4-3 overall, but has lost those three decisions by a total of just 10 points.

Offensively, Kansas is not far removed, holding third in rushing (238.0) and total offense (314.3) and passing (76.2).

But back to that Jayhawk success at Lincoln. Most spectacular win was the 1947 affair in which Red Hogan and Otto Schnellbacher climaxed a 56-yard drive in the final 40 seconds by hooking-up on a nine-yard pass. Schnellbacher earlier had run 35 yards for the first score after fielding the Husker 49. Nebraska full-back Dale Adams lurched 40 yards in the third period to put the Scarlet on top, 7-6, and that's the way it stood until Hogan's payoff flip. This win broke a 31-year-jinx, which had seen Kansas winless at Lincoln since 1916.

Here is a thumbnail of KU's current win streak at Lincoln. 1961-KU 28 NU 6 — Kansas broke out of the barrier with a 21-0 lead then cancelled a fourth-quarter Nebraska score with a 35-yard breakaway by Tony Leiker off a double-reverse. Jayhawkers corralled Thunder Thornton to 46 yards and restricted NU to 90 overall.

1959-KU 10 NU 3 — Veteran end Dale Rensberg lunged for John Hadl's low liner in the end zone to score game's lone touchdown in fourth quarter. This capped 80-yard drive in which Curtis McClinton accounted for 47 lengths. KU's John Suder toed a 32-yard field goal in first five minutes and Ron Meade matched it in the second minute of the second quarter from 30 yards out.

1957-KU 14 NU 12 — End Jim Letcavits scooped Wally Strauch's low bullet off the end zone turf in the fourth quarter to land Jayhawkers second touchdown and they preserved lead with goal line stand in fading minutes. Strauch scored first on six-yard rollout. Scarlet quarterback Roy Stinnett pulled Huskers up to 6-7 halftime deficit with one-yard sneak in second quarter, then got them on top in third on same maneuver.

CLARIDGE LEAVES SICK BAY, BUT REMAINS IDLE

Nebraska quarterback Dennis Claridge was released Thursday from the NU Student Health Center, but still did not work out with the Huskers.

However, NU coaches are hopeful that the senior signal caller will be able to see some action Saturday against Kansas.

Claridge had been hospitalized since the Huskers returned from Missouri last Saturday night. A charley horse that started in his thigh caused general swelling throughout his left leg.

Sophomore Fred Duda is being groomed to handle the Husker quarterbacking chores Saturday if Claridge can't go. Dave Theisen and Chuck Doepeke would share the punting duties normally handled by Claridge.

NU coach Bob Devaney shielded away from predicting a high-scoring affair against the Jayhawks, but the Husker mentor did point out that Kansas is a difficult team to prevent from scoring.

"No one has shut them out yet," Devaney noted. "And we feel they will score. Our hope is that if it is a high-scoring game, we can out-score them."

"Our offense will have to turn in its best performance of the year if the game turns into a high-scoring battle," Devaney said.

Opponents' Records Add To Wesleyan's Prestige

Nebraska Wesleyan's football success this season takes on an additional luster when the records of some of its foes are examined.

Midland, a 20-13 Plainsmen victim in the grid opener for both clubs, never tasted defeat again in its march to a Tri-State Conference championship and a 7-1-1 season mark. Undefeated Northern State, the scourge of the South Dakota Intercollegiate Conference, has experienced but one tense moment, a 14-13 squeaker over Ray Westover's club.

A season finale victory tonight would cap the Plainsmen comeback with the inaugural football championship of the Great Plains Association. Hastings and Wesleyan both carry 2-0 loop records into the decider.

Broncs 2nd

Hastings cemented second-place honors with a 24-7 victory over Chadron as the Nebraska College Conference wound up play last weekend. Wayne claimed third with a 52-0 lashing of Peru.

The young Bobcats ended the season with a 3-5-1 performance, one of their more disastrous in recent years, but the rest of the NCC members continue on for another weekend.

NCC champion Kearney's battle with its South Dakota counterpart, Northern, tops the program. Both risk perfect records and national ranking in the Saturday collision at Aberdeen.

Warriors Champs

Midland's two-pronged attack — passing by Lonnie Allen and running by Larry Stednitz — proved too much for Concordia's ground forces and coach Dale Pennybaker's crew took home a 27-13 win and conference laurels as Tri-State competition concluded last Saturday.

The contest was Midland's last of the year. Concordia will try to end things on a winning note when it hosts St. Cloud, Minn., Saturday.

Omaha University stands one game away from a repeat Central Intercollegiate title. The Indians, having disposed of Washburn, 41-14, wrap up CIC activity in a road engagement with Pittsburg.

The Indians are 3-0 entering Saturday's game. Pittsburg was expected to bring a like record into the fray, but the Gorillas were held to a 0-0 tie by Emporia.

Washburn and Ft. Hays will settle the third place question in the remaining CIC contest.

ELSTON... with wife and small Howards.

Howard Wins MVP Award

Teaneck, N.J. (AP) — Elston Howard has a very special reason for wanting to perform even better in 1964 than he did last season — when he did well enough to win the American League's Most Valuable Player award.

"I want to do it for you know who—Yogi Berra," said the durable catcher of the New York Yankees Thursday, just after he had been accorded one of baseball's greatest honors.

Berra, who relinquished the regular Yankee catching job to Howard in 1960, was named manager of the club two weeks ago after Ralph Houk was elevated to the general manager's post.

"I owe Yogi a great deal," said Howard. "He helped me a lot — along with Bill Dickey — when the Yankees decided to convert me from an outfielder into a catcher. Now I've got a chance to repay him."

"I've got to admit I was surprised when Yogi was named manager. But I guess I shouldn't have been. He has real good baseball sense. I said four or five years ago that Yogi would make a good manager some day but I didn't think it would come so soon."

Howard led the Yankee hitters with a .287 batting average, and the 6-foot-2, 205-pounder paced the American League catchers with a .994 fielding average, was fifth in the league with 28 home runs and eighth in runs batted in with 85.

Missed Goals

"I missed a couple of personal goals last year," he said, "but all in all, I think this was about the best season I've had. I consider it a real solid year, better than 1961, when I hit .348. That's because I got so many solid hits this year."

Howard drew 15 first place

Plenty Of Tallies

Saturday's Nebraska-Kansas match may not see any more touchdowns scored than in last year's wild fray, but if both teams live up to their offensive capabilities, fans in the packed Memorial Stadium should see enough to satisfy their appetite.

And the distribution is likely to be more even than a year ago when the Huskers smothered the Jayhawk grid-ders with a lightning-like opening half en route to the 40-16 win.

Little doubt remains as to how Kansas will go into the game—ready for bear. But how Nebraska's gridgers will feel is anybody's guess. It isn't likely that they will have the same fire in their eyes as in last year's clash at Lawrence, but there are still those who say last year's result against the Jayhawks was a fluke. Whether the Huskers feel strongly enough about the matter to blast the Jay-hawks again remains to be seen.

We'll call it close: NEBRASKA 27, Kansas 22.

Other Big Eight Games

OKLAHOMA 34, Iowa State 16... The Sooners may be about ready to open their late season spurt, ala last year.

MISSOURI 28, Colorado 0... Buffs' defense can't compare with Nebraska's, and Missouri should roll in high fashion in high altitude at Boulder.

OKLAHOMA STATE 14, Tulsa 12... A first win for Phil Cutchin at Stillwater.

The Midwest

Illinois 23, Michigan 21... Minnesota 17, Iowa 14... Michigan State 26, Purdue 14... Wisconsin 14, North-western 13... Cincinnati 21, North Texas State 12... Detroit 20, Villanova 7... ## Nebraska Prep Ratings

Overall class rankings of high school football teams, based on season's performances.

By Don Forsythe

The following letter was received from a number of Lincoln Northeast backers:

"PREP TOPS CLASS A RATINGS" says our one and only loyal prep sports writer, Don Forsythe. The schedules are as follows:

CREIGHTON PREP	NORTHEAST
Omaha South.....2 6 0	Lincoln Southeast.....6 3 0
Lincoln High.....4 5 0	Fremont.....4 5 0
Omaha Westside.....3 1 1	Grand Island.....3 4 0
Omaha Benson.....4 5 0	Lincoln High.....4 5 0
Omaha North.....3 5 1	Beatrice.....2 6 0
Omaha Central.....0 9 0	Hastings.....2 6 0
Bishop Ryan.....4 3 0	Fairbury.....3 5 1
Omaha Tech.....2 6 0	Omaha Westside.....3 5 1
C. B. Abe Lincoln.....1 8 0	Bellevue.....3 4 0

This is the best???

Wouldn't it be nice and loyal to have a Lincoln Journal and Star plaque given to the hometown winning team? On this plaque should be written "NORTHEAST ROCKETS TIE CREIGHTON BLUE JAYS FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP".

Lincoln sports writer, Don Forsythe, did you know the Northeast defensive team was the least scored upon this year? Did you know Northeast played all their games from the Nebraska Class A field? Regardless of lack of hometown newspaper support — We challenge your right to place Creighton Prep ahead of Lincoln Northeast without first defeating them!

The Northeast team and their Class A coach, Art Bauer, deserve the support of their people and their paper. Had Lincoln High or Southeast ended up their season with a 9-0 record we know the publications and outrage would have been quite different.

Through the power of the press you have told this group of citizens coming from Northeast that it isn't what you do or how good you do it—it's who you know, kids!

We say: "NORTHEAST ROCKETS TIE CREIGHTON PREP FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP"

NORTHEAST CITIZENS (29 signers)

Comment — It is unfortunate that a playoff between the Lincoln and Omaha champions has not been originated. It would have determined the most worthy team for state honors this year.

The same was true in 1961 when Northeast and Omaha North each finished with 9-0 records and Northeast was rated No. 1. There were no letters from Northeast fans that year asking that North and Northeast share the title.

Creighton Prep and Northeast each boast fine football teams and fine coaches. It is true that Northeast has allowed fewer points than any other Class A team (40).

Creighton Prep also has a fine defense, having allowed only 52 points. The Junior Jays scored 207 points during the season while Northeast scored 151.

In the final analysis it is the two contenders' records against common opponents Lincoln High and Omaha Westside that have to be carefully considered.

Northeast defeated Lincoln High, 19-12, and Westside 14-6. Creighton Prep defeated Lincoln High, 14-0, and Westside 27-20. That gives the Junior Jays a six-point advantage in the comparison.

Ratings are not a question of "loyalty", but rather a sincere attempt to equate the relative strengths of teams which compete in different areas.

Kansas Always Fierce On Husker Home Sod

Lawrence, Kan. — One of the imponderable mysteries of Big Eight football is how Kansas, which trails Nebraska 19-47-3, in their ancient all-time series, consistently plays the Cornhuskers so ruggedly on the latter's home soil.

Note, please, that the Jayhawkers never have won three successively at Lawrence since this series was founded in 1892. Yet they have authored two such streaks at Lincoln, second of which is still alive. Fact is, the Jayhawkers have bagged six of the last eight decisions in Huskerland, losing only in '53 and '55 after cracking a lengthy drouth with a 13-7 break through in 1947.

Furthermore, since the modern conference was formed in 1928, Kansas has suffered only one wide defeat at Lincoln, a 0-31 thrumping in 1941. They have lost six other verdicts by a touchdown or less, another by nine points and two more by two touchdowns. The clubs played a 13-13 tie in 1937.

Against this odd backdrop the two eleven pitch their 70th battle Saturday. At stake is the Huskers' half-game Big Eight lead, wrought by a 13-

12 squeeze over Missouri last Saturday. NU is 4-1 in conference play, 6-0 overall. Oklahoma's defending champions, 3-0, are the only other club with a perfect conference record heading into the November stretch run.

Kansas is 2-2 in league play and 4-3 overall, but has lost those three decisions by a total of just 10 points.

The Huskers will come in a solid favorite. And little wonder. They pressed their nation-leading rushing figure to 288.7 with a 299 outpouring against Missouri. They also lead the conference in first downs, total offense, rushing defense and total defense.

Offensively, Kansas is not far removed, holding third in rushing (238.0) and total offense (314.3) and passing (76.2).

But back to that Jayhawk success at Lincoln. Most spectacular win was the 1947 affair in which Red Hogan and Otto Schnellbacher climaxed a 56-yard drive in the final 40 seconds by hooking up on a nine-yard pass. Schnellbacher earlier had run 35 yards for the first score after fielding a Ray Evans bullet from the Husker 49. Nebraska full-back Dale Adams lunched 40 yards in the third period to put the Scarlet on top, 7-6, and that's the way it stood until Hogan's payoff flip. This win broke a 31-year-jinx, which had seen Kansas winless at Lincoln since 1916.

Here is a thumbnail of KU's current win streak at Lincoln.

1961-KU 28 NU 6 — Kansas broke out of the barrier with a 21-0 lead then cancelled a fourth-quarter Nebraska score with a 35-yard breakaway by Tony Leiker off a double-reverse. Jayhawkers corralled Thunder Thornton to 46 yards and restricted NU to 90 overall.

1959-KU 10 NU 3 — Veteran end Dale Rensberg lunged for John Hadl's low liner in the end zone to score game's lone touchdown in fourth quarter. This capped 80-yard drive in which Curtis McClinton accounted for 47 lengths. KU's John Suder toed a 32-yard field goal in first five minutes and Ron Meade matched it in the second minute of the second quarter from 30 yards out.

1957-KU 14 NU 12 — End Jim Letcavits scooped Wally Strauch's low bullet off the end zone turf in the fourth quarter to land Jayhawkers second touchdown and they preserved lead with goal line stand in fading minutes. Strauch scored first on six-yard rollout. Scarlet quarterback Roy Stinnett pulled Huskers up to 6-7 halftime deficit with one-yard sneak in second quarter, then got them on top in third on same maneuver.

1955-KU 14 NU 12 — End Jim Letcavits scooped Wally Strauch's low bullet off the end zone turf in the fourth quarter to land Jayhawkers second touchdown and they preserved lead with goal line stand in fading minutes. Strauch scored first on six-yard rollout. Scarlet quarterback Roy Stinnett pulled Huskers up to 6-7 halftime deficit with one-yard sneak in second quarter, then got them on top in third on same maneuver.

1953-KU 14 NU 12 — End Jim Letcavits scooped Wally Strauch's low bullet off the end zone turf in the fourth quarter to land Jayhawkers second touchdown and they preserved lead with goal line stand in fading minutes. ## Prep League Airing Today

Representatives of the schools involved in the proposed Metropolitan high school athletic league will meet today at 9 a.m. at Kellogg center amid all kinds of conjecture, problems and hopes.

The interest has intensified of late, primarily because of the desires of Plus X of Lincoln, Boys Town of Omaha and Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs, Iowa, to be included in any planning.

The 14 schools who will be represented today are Lincoln High, Northeast and Southeast from Lincoln; South, Benson, Central, Westside, Creighton Prep, Bishop Ryan and Bellevue from Omaha, plus Hastings and Grand Island.

Ralph Beechner of the Lincoln school system said there is no league at the present time and that the problems to be ironed out are vast.

He said there had been some misunderstanding that the Lincoln schools might not play one another and he wanted it clear that this would not be the case under any circumstances. The misunderstanding grew from the idea that the Lincoln schools might not all be in the same division and would have to play one another in non-league games. No alignment has been determined.

Dr. Steven Watkins, superintendent of schools in Lincoln, said there were several schools wanting into the league if it were formed. He said the Pius letter for application would be read at the meeting Friday.

He added that obviously there would have to be a cut-off somewhere on the size of the league.

Two of the schools at the meeting do not know at this time how they will go until the league is established. Grand Island and Hastings are waiting to see what happens.

They are currently affiliated with the Big Ten and do not want to jeopardize their standing there without improving themselves. Part of their primary concern is continuing their relationships with the Lincoln schools.

"There are advantages and disadvantages," Grand Island principal Paul Sell said of going into the league. "We don't want to lose the Lincoln schools. We would be curtailed in our relationships if they went in and we didn't. And if we go with the new league, we would have to sever some of our ties out state."

It is a fair assumption that whichever way Grand Island goes, so will Hastings and vice versa.

Meanwhile, the outstate schools which are now playing the schools pondering the new conference are concerned about their future.

E. L. Gustafson, principal at North Platte and current president of the Big Ten Conference, says the Big Ten would sorely miss Grand Island and Hastings. But he said:

"Other conference schools have made no effort to sway the judgment of Grand Island and Hastings."

As for the Lincoln schools, Gustafson said they had enjoyed their association with them in athletics and, if possible, would like to continue them.

Columbus principal W. N. Floyd noted that he was biased to begin with, and that he hated to lose Grand Island and Hastings.

"We have always had a high regard for the Big Ten," Floyd said, "so naturally we would be biased by Grand Island and Hastings moving out of the league since they are our biggest schools."

Floyd said that he understood that a major factor in the new league was the full program of athletics, including all the minor sports. He agreed that they were vital, but he said he thought in time all the schools in the Big Ten would offer competition in these areas. He said Columbus was starting gymnastics and would compete in swimming next year.

Floyd said he had looked forward to playing more Lincoln schools because it would make a more representative schedule. He noted that Columbus was playing less Class B schools and wanted to continue the trend.

Principal Gerald Meyer of Fremont said he would be concerned if the segments of the league were so large that Fremont would lose several games.

He said he was more concerned about basketball since he had heard the league would play a double round robin which would just about complete the schedule.

Meyer said he hated to lose any competition with Lincoln schools.

Beatrice principal F. E. Colgan expressed the same thing, noting the proximity of the two cities and the financial gains of the Lincoln schools and Beatrice when they played.

Fairbury principal Harold Dietrich was not alarmed, pointing out that Fairbury was not large enough to compete year in, year out. He said they had enjoyed their relationships and would continue them if possible.

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce is quietly looking into the proposed league, and president Willard Townsend issued the following statement:

"We will be interested in learning what the total plan will be for this conference. And when this information is made available, I will presume that we will study it."

Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs said Thursday that it had not been notified if it were in or out and sent a letter to the officials of the proposed new league seeking admittance.

Sharkey Says Clay Can Win

... NOT A MISMATCH

Epping, N.H. (U) — The peaceable Squire of Epping says the best way to hunt an ugly old bear is to make the bear come after you. Then you can bop him at your leisure.

And, Squire Jack Sharkey points out, Cassius Clay can beat that ugly old bear if he does just that.

Sharkey, former heavy-weight champion now 61 and aging gracefully, said Thursday that to call the Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay heavy-weight championship fight "a mismatch" is silly.

"I don't see why they're calling it a mismatch," he said.

"It should be a good fight. It's certainly going to be a good match financially, the interest in the gate should be tremendous.

"And no matter what you fellows write about this Clay, about his loud mouth and all, you've got to remember he's very fast and he can box. And he's smart enough too."

No other

Sharkey said he doesn't think there's any other possible match for Clay — except Floyd Patterson, "and no one even knows if he's going to fight again."

"Who else is there? He's fought all those other guys, and even if some of them weren't very good, at least he's been active," the ex-champ pointed out.

He added:

"You know, they had a few things to say about me when I was fighting, too. But no one really knows anything at all about a match like this until the two men get into the ring."

Strategy

Sharkey said Cassius will have to let Liston bring the fight to him, something Liston is in the habit of doing anyway.

"But if he gets this Liston angry enough and tired enough of chasing him, he might be able to take advantage of some wild punches."

"And if he can start Liston backing up... well, who knows? Who's ever seen him back up?" Sharkey asked.

"But I'll tell you one thing. Don't believe this guy Clay can't fight just because all you read about is his mouth."

"He'll probably stay in there longer than two minutes like that other guy Patterson did."

The squire concluded:

"Hell, even I could stay in there longer than two minutes."

Complex System Gives Rote AFL Aerial Lead

New York (U)—Tobin Rote, veteran quarterback of the San Diego Chargers replaced Buffalo's Jack Kemp as the passing leader in the American Football League in the latest statistical roundup.

Rote, 35-year-old former National Football League and Canadian star, has connected with 62 per cent of his passes for 13 touchdowns and 1,494 yards.

Ratings of the passers are figured on a complicated system involving efficiency in six different departments that include interceptions, yards, TDs, completion percentage, interception percentage and yardage per attempt.

Paul Lowe of San Diego passed Clem Daniels of Oakland in the rushing department by picking up 79 yards on 16 runs in the 53-7 rout of the New York Jets. Lowe has 581 yards, just one more than Daniels.

Bill Miller of the Buffalo Bills remained in first place among the pass catchers with 48 for 649 yards and Gino Capalietti of Boston widened his scoring lead with nine points against Houston for a total of 81. George Blair of San Diego is next with 49 points.

Bork Continues To Collect Small College Stat Laurels

New York (U) — George Bork of Northern Illinois, who closes out a brilliant career at Central Michigan Saturday, continues to hold a commanding lead in passing and total offense among the nation's college division football players.

The latest statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau showed Friday that Bork has gained 2,537 yards in 344 plays covering eight games. Bruce Upstill of College of Emporia, Kansas, is second with 1,748 yards followed by Chuck Green, Wittenberg, 1,667.

In passing, Bork has gained a record-breaking 2,661 yards. He also established a record for touchdown passes last Saturday, firing four for a season's total of 30.

Jim Holder of Panhandle A&M still is far out in front in rushing with 1,073 yards. Charlie Reed of Whitworth is second with 948 while Jerry Wonders, Luther, is in the No. 3 position with 928.

Steve Bailey of Kentucky States has a sizable lead in punting with a 46.4 yard average and Jack Ankerson, Ripon, has scored the most points, 132 on 17 touchdowns, 27 points after TD and one field goal. End Hugh Rohrschneider, Bork's favorite target, is the pace-setter in passing receiving with 931 yards gained on 65 receptions. He also has scored 13 touchdowns.

Northern State of South Dakota held its team rushing lead with a 352.3 average although it was replaced by College of Emporia as the total offense leader. College of Emporia has gained an average of 487.3 yards a game.

Bethune-Cookman of Florida is tops in total defense, having yielded only 96.0 yards a game while Kentucky State is No. 1 in punting with 45.9 and San Diego in scoring with 41.7.

Connecticut Bartender Collects On $79,660.30 Roosevelt Twin Double

... TAXES TO DEDUCT ALMOST HALF

Waterbury, Conn. (U) — A 39-year-old Waterbury bartender worked as usual Thursday even though he had won $79,660.30 on the twin double at Roosevelt Raceway.

The hours between midnight Wednesday when he left the raceway in Westbury, N.Y., and noon Thursday have been the most hectic in his life, said a tired but happy Joseph Mariano.

In between catching about four hours of sleep, and being slapped on the back by well-wishers, Mariano has been told by a Waterbury Internal Revenue official that he probably will wind up with about $41,000 after taxes.

Once-A-Week Better

Mariano, a once-a-week (Wednesday night) better, said he will help his married daughter, Elaine, 21, toward paying for a new house, and invest what's left after deducting the taxes.

He lives in a two-family house with his wife, Susan, Elaine and her husband, and another daughter, Linda, 18. His mother, who owns the house, occupies the first floor.

The excited family gave him a rousing reception when he arrived home at 2.20 a.m. He had phoned his wife about midnight from the track — "I've got good news, I won the twin double."

After she realized he wasn't kidding, she told him to "be careful, but hurry home."

Couldn't Lose

Mariano said he knew he couldn't lose after he won the eighth race "because I had all eight horses in the ninth."

It was just a question of how much I would get."

A way of describing a twin double is that it is a double daily double. A fan buys a $2 ticket on his choices to win the sixth and seventh races. If he wins, the valid ticket must be exchanged before the start of the eighth and ninth races.

Mariano first spent $20 on 10 twin double tickets, all on Miracle Henry in the sixth and Sea Missile in the seventh. When they won, he exchanged eight of the tickets to pair Dixie Melody in the eighth with each of the eight horses in the ninth race. The other two tickets went for other combinations.

Long Shot

He was rooting, of course for the horse that would bring him the most cash, Lieut. Byrd (61.60), a long shot. "I thought Lieut. Byrd was going to blow it in the home stretch," said Mariano.

He said he took more than the usual time to handicap the races because the bar was closed most of election day (Tuesday). But even so "he didn't feel particularly lucky."

The $79,660.30 is the biggest twin double payoff on record. The previous high for a twin double was the $68,228.80 won at Suffolk Downs Oct. 19, 1963. The New York State record was $37,116.10 at Monticello Raceway, Aug. 18.

Two More Arrive For Wash. International

Laurel, Md. (U)—Espresso of England and Christmas Island of Ireland, delayed by bad weather, arrived Thursday at Laurel Race Course, to run in next Monday's Washington, D.C. International.

Their arrival left only F. rumbras of Venezuela missing from the field of 10 horses expected to start in the $150,000 1 1/4 mile turf race.

Sharkey Says Clay Can Win

... NOT A MISMATCH

Epping, N.H. (P) — The peaceable Squire of Epping says the best way to hunt an ugly old bear is to make the bear come after you. Then you can bop him at your leisure.

And, Squire Jack Sharkey points out, Cassius Clay can beat that ugly old bear if he does just that.

Sharkey, former heavy-weight champion now 61 and aging gracefully, said Thursday that to call the Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay heavy-weight championship fight "a mismatch" is silly.

"I don't see why they're calling it a mismatch," he said.

"It should be a good fight. It's certainly going to be a good match financially, the interest in the gate should be tremendous."

"And no matter what you fellows write about this Clay, about his loud mouth and all, you've got to remember he's very fast and he can box. And he's smart enough, too."

"But if he gets this Liston angry enough and tired enough of chasing him, he might be able to take advantage of some wild punches."

"And if he can punch Liston back up ... well, who knows? Who's ever seen him back up?" Sharkey asked.

"But I'll tell you one thing. Don't believe this guy Clay can't fight just because all you read about is his mouth. He'll probably stay in there longer than two minutes like that other guy Patterson did."

KU Frosh Fell K-State Yearlings

Lawrence, Kan. (P) — The Kansas freshmen defeated Kansas State's first-year grid men 23 to 13 Thursday before a crowd of 2,500 at Memorial Stadium in Lawrence.

Kansas State jumped to a 13 to 7 lead on an 86-yard kickoff return by Bob Henry and a 75-yard punt return by Henry Howard.

Kansas scored with five seconds left in the first half to make it 14 to 13. The Jayhawks then added 9 more points in the second half on a field goal and a touchdown by Gary Dahlin.

Tigers Add Back To Travel Roster

Columbia, Mo. (P) — Gerald Stevenson, a 207-pound half-back who hasn't played for two years, has been added to the Missouri football team's traveling squad and may play against Colorado Saturday.

Stevenson has been plagued by injuries and has been prone to fumble in scrimmage, coach Dan Devine said.

End George Seals and George Comfort, a tackle, both are nursing injured ankles and won't be on the plane that leaves for Boulder, Colo., today, Devine added.

Tiger, Giardello Ink For Title Bout

Atlantic City, N.J. (P) — With neither fighter making any predictions except to say they would win, world middle-weight champion Dick Tiger and Joey Giardello signed a contract for a title fight in Convention Hall Dec. 7.

"I'm not Cassius Clay," said Tiger. "I don't make predictions. I just fight."

Giardello also refused to predict any round that the fight would end.

"I'm gonna win," he said. "I'll just try to make it go less than 15 rounds."

BOLT ROOKIES FACE TEST

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Part one of Vince Aldrich's rebuilding job at Pius X will be completed at Vap Stadium tonight as the sophomore lads Thunderbolts entertain fifth-ranked Omaha Bishop Ryan.

It will be football Test No. 9 of the season for the Thunderbolts, who hope to put this year's lessons into more noticeable use next year.

Aldrich was aware of the fact that he would have to go with untested performers this season when he had only four returning lettermen. The injury bug has added to the problems, forcing an even more liberal use of sophomores than had been expected.

"I may start with nearly all sophomores in the line this week," Aldrich says.

Three wins, one a major upset, have brightened the rebuilding campaign. The ambush of sixth-ranked Bellevue was one of the big stunners in prep circles this year.

The experience picked up by the underclassmen in the current campaign will be a big plus factor when the Thunderbolts open camp next fall.

World Title Up For Grabs On Pro Mat Card

The world's championship will be at stake when Verne Gagne and Pat O'Connor tangle in the headline event of Tuesday's pro grapple card at Pershing Auditorium.

The two grapplers are both Lincoln favorites and for Gagne, it will be his first appearance in the Capital City in many months.

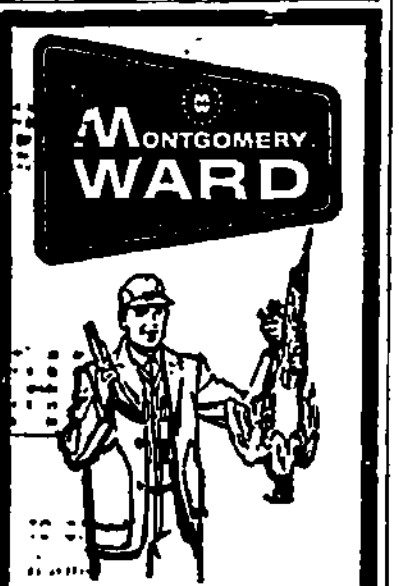

Mitsu Arakawa, an unpopular judo chop artist from the Orient, is billed for the semifinal event against Paul Christy.

Duke Hoffman and Ted Christy will meet in a special event and one other bout will complete the program which opens at 8:30.

That's when part two of the rebuilding job comes in—turning the experience into marks in the victory column.

The season mark for this selector climbed to .779 following a 60-13-1 effort in the last major week of activity.

This week's selections: Bishop Ryan v. Pius X at Vap Stadium—Young Thunderbolts still don't have the experience necessary to handle the Knights.

Grand Island at Scottsbluff—Bears have won three of four previous playoffs against the Islanders and the West Division winner hasn't lost in the last seven title games. Take Scottsbluff.

Aurora at Ord—Both teams were looking ahead to this one last week. A slim edge to the Huskies.

Schuyler at Wahoo—Warriors wrap up a second straight unbeaten season.

Minden at Cozad—Haymakers improving in the late season. Deshler at Superior—Visitors have the edge.

McCook at Holdrege—Bison bounce back this week.

Ceresco at Wahoo Catholic—Home field edge will help Wahoo Catholic.

CENTERVILLE HIT BY FAIRBURY JC

Centerville, Iowa (AP)—Mark Ward threw two touchdown passes and kicked two extra points Thursday night in leading Fairbury JC to a 23-19 football victory over Centerville.

Fairbury had a 17-0 half-time lead on a 61-yard Ward to Warner Krumme pass play, a 35-yard Ward to Charles Gordon pass and a field goal by Larry Fisher from the 33.

The third Fairbury touchdown and the one that enabled the Nebraskans to stand off Centerville came in the third period on a 9-yard run by Krumme.

Centerville did all its scoring in the third period, getting touchdowns on a 92-yard run-back by Richard Shepard of an intercepted pass, a 56-yard Ron Boyer to Mike Bayliss pass and a 14-yard Boyer to Duane Wilson pass.

Kansas' Roberts Reported Worse

Lawrence, Kan. (AP)—Coach Jack Mitchell said it still is doubtful that Jay Roberts will be able to play against Nebraska. He said Roberts was in worse shape Thursday with a shoulder injury than he was Monday.

The Jayhawks will go to Lincoln Friday in time for a brief workout.

ORDERS OF THE DAY

AFL Surprise Clubs Rematched

Kansas City (AP)—Kansas City's defending champion Chiefs and the Oakland Raiders, two surprising clubs in the American Football League—for opposite reasons—have a rematch here tonight.

The Chiefs are losing more than anticipated and the Raiders are winning more. In fact, last Sunday Oakland topped Kansas City 10-7, giving the Raiders a 5-4 record and the Chiefs a four-game losing string and a 2-5-1 mark.

Quite a turn-around for Oakland, winner of only one of 14 games last year and three altogether in the past two seasons, and the Chiefs, expected to make a good run for another Western Division title.

Abner Haynes, the fleet halfback who missed one game, is ready for full-time duty and is likely to be Len Dawson's primary target on passes.

Nagle Leads Aussie Meet; Arnie Second

Sydney, Australia (AP)—Australia's Kel Nagle fired a 6-under-par 67 Thursday for the first round lead in the 72-hole World Masters Golf Tournament, taking a one-stroke lead over Arnold Palmer and a whopping seven-stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus.

Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa., highlighted his round with an eagle 3 at the 490-yard 13th hole, and wound up trailing Nagle by only one stroke after a 34-34 round. But America's other hope, Nicklaus, ran into difficulty.

The Columbus, Ohio, strong-boy, who recently led the United States to the Canada Cup team title with Palmer and took home the individual crown, started and ended the rounds with three putt greens for a 36-38 card.

'Super Putting' Helps Rosburg To Golf Lead

Palm Springs, Calif. (AP)—Bob Rosburg, who hasn't won a golf tournament in nearly three years, shot a four-under-par 67 Thursday and took a narrow first-round lead in the $50,000 Frank Sinatra Invitational Open.

Rosburg, hitting all his putts through 14 holes, finished one stroke ahead of Frank Beard, a 24-year-old Kentuckian who turned professional a year ago.

Tony Lema, the fourth-ranking money winner on the 1963 PGA tour and the biggest money maker to enter this tournament, shot a 76 and was in danger of failing to make the 36-hole cut Friday.

Rosburg, who hasn't won since the Bing Crosby Open in January, 1961, said he played his best golf in several months.

"I really putted super," he said. "I took only 28 putts for the round... I hit only one bad putt all day."

Grand Jury Indicts Two On Charges Of Passing Secrets To Soviet

Newark, N.J. (UPI)—A federal grand jury Thursday indicted an electrical engineer and a Russian chauffeur on charges they passed to the Soviet Union national defense secrets that could help an enemy launch a nuclear attack on the United States.

The two accused spies, who used miniature cameras and pocket radio transmitters and receivers, face the death penalty if convicted.

John William Butenko, 38, the American engineer who liked to play the stock market, and Igor A. Ivanov, 33, the chauffeur, were accused specifically of giving the Soviet information about the command and control system of the Strategic Air Command (SAC), one of America's chief deterrents against surprise nuclear attack.

The two men were arrested the night of Oct. 29 during a clandestine meeting at the parking lot of the railroad station in Englewood, N.J. The FBI said Butenko handed a briefcase to Ivanov which contained details of an Air Force contract with his employer, the International Electric Corp. of Paramus, N.J.

The indictment also named three members of the Soviet mission to the United Nations as co-conspirators, but not defendants. The three, Yuri A. Romashin, third secretary of the mission; Gleb A. Oavlov, an attache, and Vladimir I. Olenev, a staff member, were ejected from the country on Nov. 1. Their diplomatic immunity kept them from being prosecuted as spies.

At the same time the grand jury was handing up the indictment, lawyers for Ivanov and Butenko were in Philadelphia to ask the U.S. 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals to release them in bail.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas F. Meany denied bail Monday on grounds that they might flee the country.

The court instructed the attorneys to refile new motions and a hearing date then will be set.

Butenko, whose parents were born in Russia, was an honor graduate of Rutgers University and a Navy veteran. Ivanov was a driver for the Amtorg Trading Co., a Russian export-import firm in New York City.

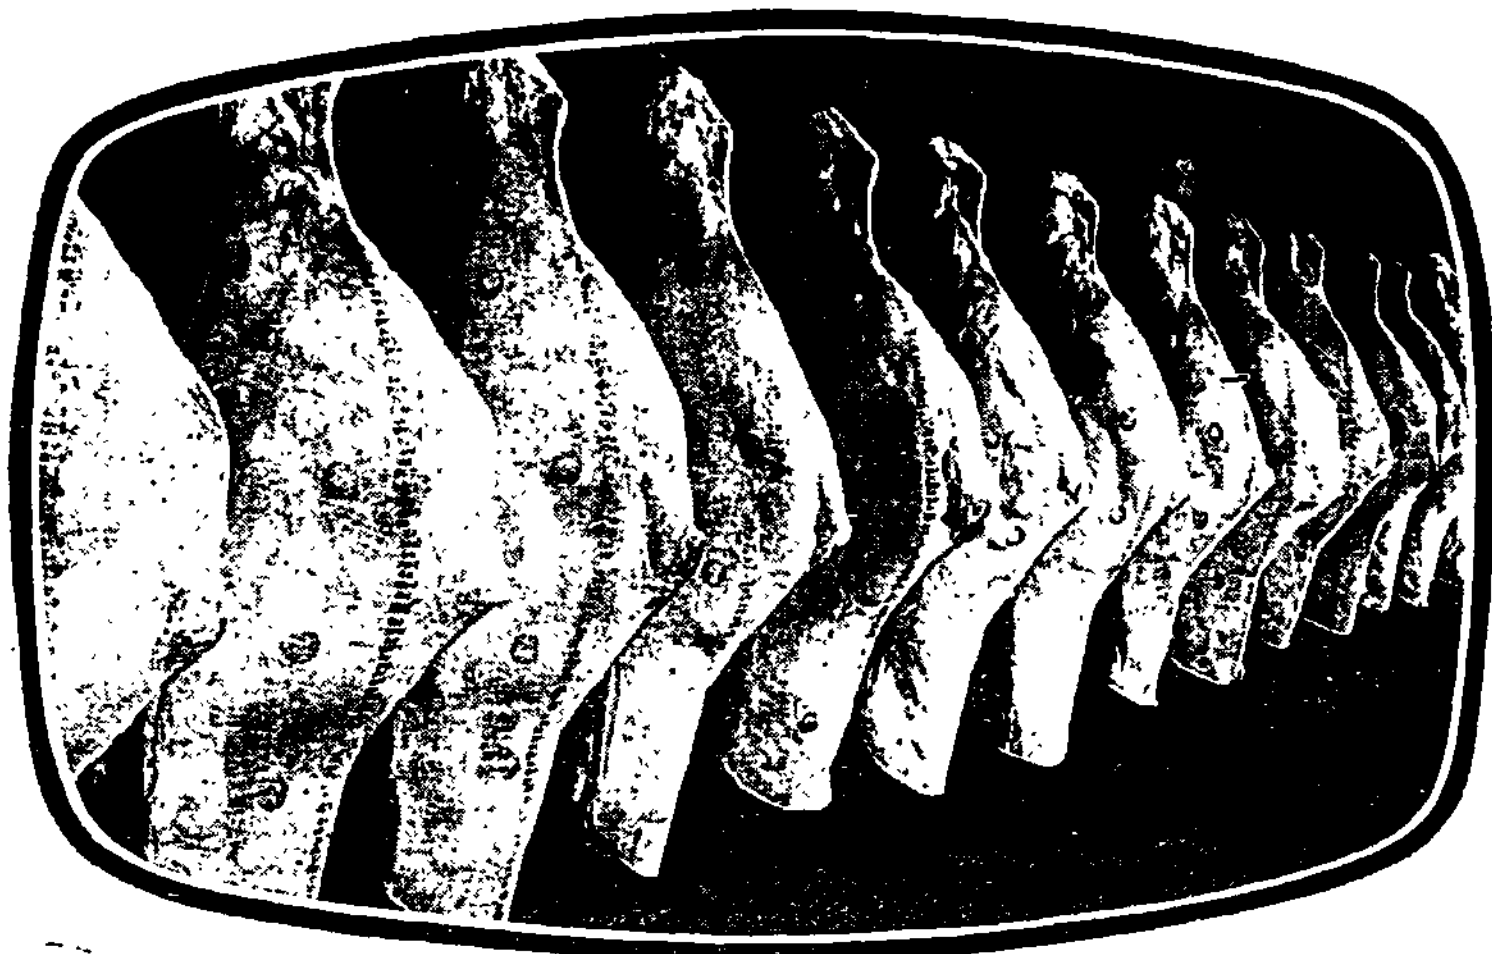

The indictment's first count cited eight meetings or trips by all the defendants and co-conspirators as overt acts of the conspiracy. They occurred between April 21 and Oct. 29, 1963 and ended up in Closter, Norwood, Paramus, Englewood and Fort Lee, N.J.

Minuteman Fails Mission, But Puts On Spectacular Display At Cape

The Lincoln Star 23

Cape Canaveral (UPI) — A Minuteman "instant missile" tumbling nose over nose exploded Thursday into a million-dollar shower of fire that singed the scrub-bush whiskers of this missile test center.

There were no injuries, save for a few unfortunately killed rattlesnakes, and damage was confined to the cape's palmetto shrubbery.

No one knew immediately what caused the failure. The Air Force said simply it planned to check into the matter.

Spectacular

While it lasted—15 seconds for the rocket flight, 15 minutes for all the fire to die down—the missile mishap was a spectacular that attracted open-mouthed attention for miles around, happening as it did at lunch hour.

The 54-foot Minuteman, normally one of the most dependable of the U.S. intercontinental rockets, roared from the bottom of a concrete-lined launching silo at 11 a.m. CST after a faultless countdown.

But even as it cleared the top of the 85-foot firing pit, it was evident the sleek white rocket had flipped its electronic lid.

The missile, carving a fiery arc instead of climbing into the sky, suddenly aimed its pointed nose downward, at the eastern tip of Cape Canaveral. As the clock ticked toward "T-plus-15 seconds," it swung end over end.

The rocket was still a scant few hundred feet over the cape, but a range safety officer had to move fast. His hands tripped two switches that instantaneously sent a radio command to touch off an explosive "destruct" package aboard the careening missile.

The blast tore the 33-ton Minuteman into a hundred flaming, smoking bits and pieces that boiled over the cape. The wreckage tumbled back to earth, trailing brilliant streamers of white vapor from the furnace-like heat of solid fuel.

The entire scene took the form of a giant white jelly-fish, speckled in red and given scores of wispy tentacles by the plunging debris.

Chunks of metal and fuel, some weighing hundreds of pounds, landed on bushes and sandy beaches with an impact that was detectable in the shower of sparks that flared with each hit and quickly died.

Boxcar Shortage Worsening With No ICC Help—Hruska

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Nebr., restive over slow government action to deal with the shortage of boxcars, warned prospects may become more disastrous for the nation's farm crops.

The Nebraska had anticipated the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) would order railroads holding boxcars rented from midwestern lines to return the cars to the ownership areas where abundant harvests now are dumped on the ground for lack of transportation.

But the day passed with no such order issued.

ICC Chairman Lawrence K. Walrath said that a "monumental shipping crisis" is building up but said his agency lacks enforcement powers to deal with the situation. He urged that the railroads co-operate on a voluntary basis to make sure crops are carried to market while "they still are marketable."

Hruska said the average daily shortage of cars is worsening steadily. For his own state, the shortage has increased from 2,604 for the week ending Oct. 12 to 3,904 for the week ending Oct. 26, while the national figure rose from 12,158 to 17,114, he said.

Despite this, he said, the Commodity Credit Corporation is planning to move about one billion bushels of grain during the next eight months, a program which Hruska said would require 62,500 cars a month.

The railroads serving the mid-continent have not enough of their own cars on hand to transport the harvested crops, the senator said. The Burlington reports 2,111 elevators are filled to capacity with more than six million bushels of grain on the ground, and the Union Pacific reports 19 million bushels blocked and 1.7 million bushels dumped outside.
